Paris Talks Heading for Showdown

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

PARIS (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam are moving toward a showdown in the Paris peace talks on the issue of ending U.S. bombing of North Vietnamese territory, and there is no compromise in sight.

Each government is expected to increase its pressure on the other in the meetings ahead, with the threat of a breakdown in the talks, a weapon both are already using.

The Main Objections

U.S. officials say they believe that North Vietnam's main aim is still to win the war by coordinated action on three fronts—trying to undermine the U.S.-supported government in Saigon, pressing the United States for concessions in the Paris talks, and striving for new military victories in South Vietnam.

A long-range secondary aim, they say, may be to negotiate a compromise settlement, for which their bargaining position would be strengthened by whatever gains they can make in South Vietnam.

President Johnson declared in Washington Thursday that "Hanoi is telling its forces in the South that they must continue their aggressive effort to support their negotiators."

At the same time Johnson said that the United States "will not be defeated on the battlefield while the talks go on" permitting the enemy "to achieve a victory that would make a mockery of the negotiations."

U.S. Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, also speaking in Washington, put the problem from the U.S. point of view in terms that North Vietnam has used to describe its own operations.

"The North Vietnamese have consistently stated," Clifford said, "that their intention was to fight and negotiate, and we must be prepared, both physically and psychologically, to do the same."

Hanoi Position Not Clear

Johnson said, "It still is not clear that Hanoi is ready for an early and honorable peace."

His statement seemed to reflect the frustration experienced by his negotiating team in Paris at failure to make any progress in opening secret talks with the North Vietnamese. This was proposed to Ambassador Xuan Thuy by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman in their meeting Wednesday and Thuy rejected it.

Thuy's strategy, at least through the Wednesday session, has been to use the talks as a forum from which to present his case to world public opinion that the United States is guilty of aggression against North Vietnam and should end all its attacks against that country without getting any North Vietnamese de-escalation in return.

The Harriman-Thuy conference is coming to the end of its second week with four meetings held, including only one this week. The next meeting is scheduled for Monday. While the sessions have been held behind closed doors, U.S. and North Vietnamese spokesmen have made public reports of virtually everything important that was said.

Gromyko Hopeful

In Moscow, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko supported Hanoi's demands for an unconditional halt to U.S. bombing but in talks with British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart gave the impression he was not too pessimistic about the future of the Paris talks.

Stewart supported the U.S. demand that Hanoi must agree to military restraint if all U.S. bombing is to cease. Gromyko discussed the lack of progress in Paris so far, but informants said he stressed the "so far," giving the impression that he is optimistic over the outcome.

Stewart and Gromyko are co-chairmen of the old Geneva peace conference machinery for Indochina, but informants said they failed to find anything they could do to help bring peace to Vietnam.

Waves of Heavy Bombers Saturate Troop Moves

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Waves of America's biggest bombers kept up one of the most concentrated saturation attacks of the war today against North Vietnamese troops reported crossing from Laos into the center of South Vietnam. The intensified air campaign was aimed at stopping any major enemy thrust across the country.

In 10 missions Thursday and today, at least 30 Air Force B52 bombers rained nearly 1,000 tons of explosives along enemy areas near the junction of the borders of South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

Kill 203 N. Viets

While the pressure mounted in the central highlands, U.S. Marines just below the demilitarized zone reported 203 North Vietnamese killed in a savage two-day battle. The Leathernecks said 23 of their men were killed and 86 wounded in the action Wednesday and Thursday two miles northeast of Con Thien.

Bombing of the central highlands was stepped up after North Vietnamese troops were reported crossing over the Laotian frontier in force. U.S. intelligence officers in the field said the Communist command might try to grab a large chunk of South Vetnam's central plateau to put more teeth into its demands at the Paris peace talks.

The first North Vietnamese divisions ever identified in South Vietnam tried to cut the country in half in 1965 but American troops drove them back during a fall of bloody fighting.

Several Targets

Flying at altitudes of more than 20,000 feet, the huge planes attacked staging areas, troop concentrations, bunkers, artillery positions and antiaircraft batteries between the Laotian border and Dak To.

U.S. outposts at the head of a valley that stretches from the Laotian border south to Dak To report heavy traffic nightly along the route which serves as the main north-south highway through the highlands.

Intelligence reports said two regiments from the North Vietnamese 325th Division have completed a 165-mile march south from near Khe Sanh to an area west of Kontum, possibly to reinforce another enemy division and four independent regiments along South Vietnam's western border.

In the DMZ action, the Marines took on two battalions—about 800 of the enemy — believed to be from the 320th North Vietnamese Division. Units from three regiments of the 3rd Marine Division got into the fray before the enemy withdrew Thursday night.

The Americans threw tanks, artillery and fighter-bombers into the battle, as well as helicopter gunships which were credited with a large percentage of the enemy killed.

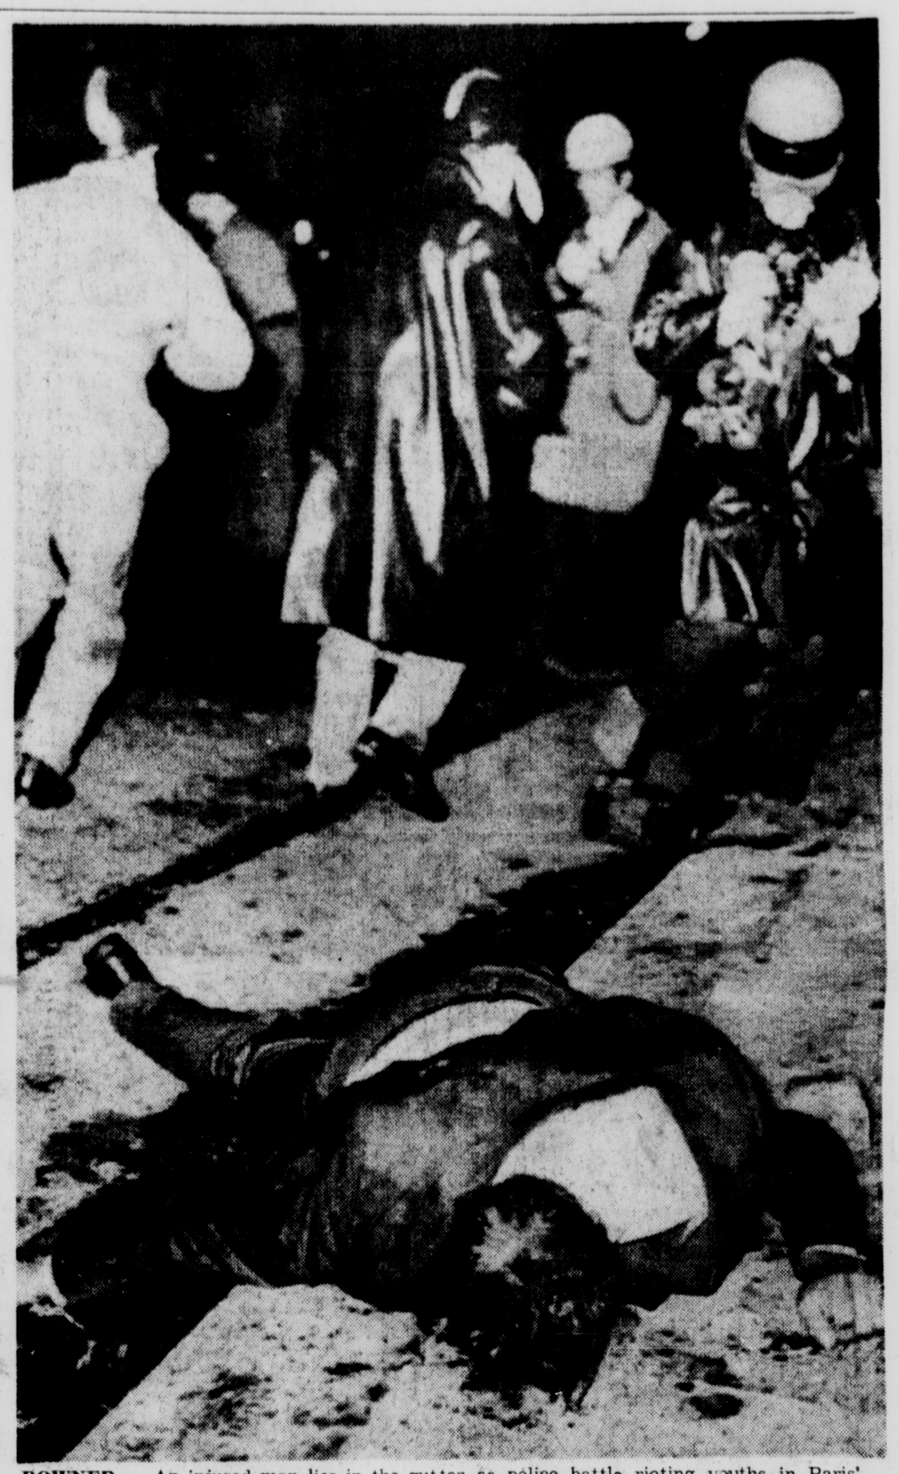

Another Marine force launched a new operation, Mameluke Thrust, 24 miles southwest of Da Nang to seek out enemy forces in the rolling hills between the highlands and the rice-producing coastal lowlands.

Report Withheld

U.S. headquarters said several battalions from the 1st Marine Division began the operation five days ago, but the announcement was withheld for security reasons.

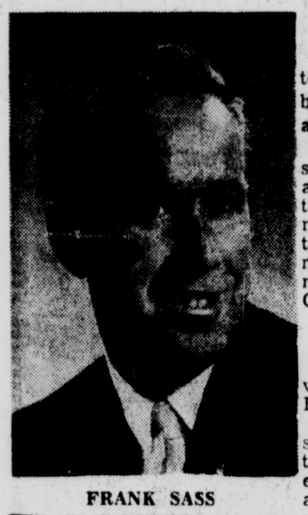

Spokesmen said the Marines have killed 76 enemy, while Marine casualties have been 16 killed and 82 wounded.

A Marine F4 Phantom supporting ground troops south of the sweep was shot down by enemy ground fire today, but the two crewmen bailed out and were rescued uninjured. It was the 264th U.S. warplane reported lost in combat over South Vietnam.

DOWNED — An injured man lies in the gutter as police battle rioting youths in Paris' Latin Quarter. The fighting came only hours after the police threatened to join ranks with France's striking workers. An estimated 6,000 youths were involved in the clash and police waded into the mob behind a screen of tear gas and jet-streams of water. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

No City Dem Endorsement

FRANK SASS

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

The Democratic City Committee voted not to take a stand on backing delegates to the national convention in August.

The fence-sitting was a result of a 21 to 13 vote defeat of a motion that would have had the committee support a three-man slate of delegates pledged to Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, or Senator Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.).

There was one abstention.

Salvages Something

The motion to take the stand was made by committeeman Frank Sass.

Sass, however, did salvage something when he moved that the committee support whomever is nominated for president at the Chicago convention.

Congressman Resnick has declared that he would not support the Democratic nominee if that nominee should happen to be Senator Kennedy.

Ellenville Democrat Resnick is running as a "favorite son" candidate but is reported to be backing the candidacy of Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey.

35 at Session

Of the 46 possible committmen, only 35 were present at the meeting held at the American Legion Post on West O'Reilly Street.

Kennedy backers were expecting a victory while Resnick's followers were hoping to hold off any motion to back a slate.

In the "lively" discussion that took place during the 45-minutes of mild tension that defined the atmosphere, Paul Mills and Vincent Berardi, spoke against the endorsement of the three man slate.

Speaking for taking a stand were former Alderman Emillio Primo, Stanley Petro and Sass.

Part of the logic behind a non-stand was that it would "split the party" and "create animosity."

One committeeman asserted, "How can we back a slate pledged to one candidate now, when in August we may have to back a different candidate?"

Another Problem

Another problem was that there was no vocal support for the slate pledged to Senator McCarthy and it was stressed that this was "unfair."

The people making this assertion, however, were, in the main, Resnick supporters.

It was pointed out by Sass that County Legislator Roger Mabie of Esopus was Ulster County's representative on the three-man slate backing the presidential hopes of Senator Kennedy; that Congressman Resnick headed his own three-man slate and that Mrs. Tobie Geertsema of Woodstock was on the slate pledged to Senator McCarthy.

The Resnick people, realizing that they could not gain a clear majority of the city committee's votes, reportedly employed the strategy that would stop the preference polling of the committeemen.

Strategy Works

Because of the rampant caution that appears to have stilled the voices of Ulster's Democrats, the strategy worked, and the committeemen, according to one observer on the scene, "breathed a sigh of relief."

Whether another motion to take a stand will be forthcoming remains a question, but such a move will no doubt be coming from Kennedy supporters.

In more positive action at the committee meeting, Stanley Petro, city treausrer, was elected secretary of the Democratic City Committee.

He replaces Joseph Policano who has moved to the Town of Ulster and is therefore ineligible to serve on the committee.

The meeting began at 8 p. m. and ended about 9:30 p. m.

Similar motions to back a slate of delegates to the national convention was either defeated by membership votes or by parlimentary procedure or through other methods by the Democratic County Committee.

During the last county committee meeting, Kennedy backers had raised the issue but were defeated in their goal of polling the committeemen.

The Potter's Field Body -- Could It Be James Earl Ray

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The burial in Potter's Field south of this Northeastern Pennsylvania town was simple and quiet, but it left behind the puzzle of what officials are calling "a very professional murder."

Richard Russell, Schuylkill County district attorney said Thursday night the persons who put four bullets into the body of the unknown victim also covered it with lime before placing it in a shallow grave to speed decomposition and obliterate fingerprints and facial features.

"The body could be anybody's but were checking all possibilities—including that of James Earl Ray," added State Police Detective George Durilla of the Reading station.

The body was stripped to shorts and undershirt — "The dead man wore size 38 shorts. That's all we know," said Russell—to further conceal his past.

The only clues left in the slaying which occurred, apparently, in April and was discovered May 7, were the victims general characteristics and dental work.

Ray—object of an international search—is the alleged slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and has been missing since the April 4 assassination in Memphis, Tenn.

Some law enforcement officials and writers have advanced the theory that Ray's complete disappearance could only mean that he also has been slain — probably by the people that hired him for the killing.

The body found near the hamlet of Brandonville resembles Ray generally, said Russell, and, a special study by a University of Pennsylvania anthropologist indicates the decomfacial structure may even have resembled Ray's, Russell added.

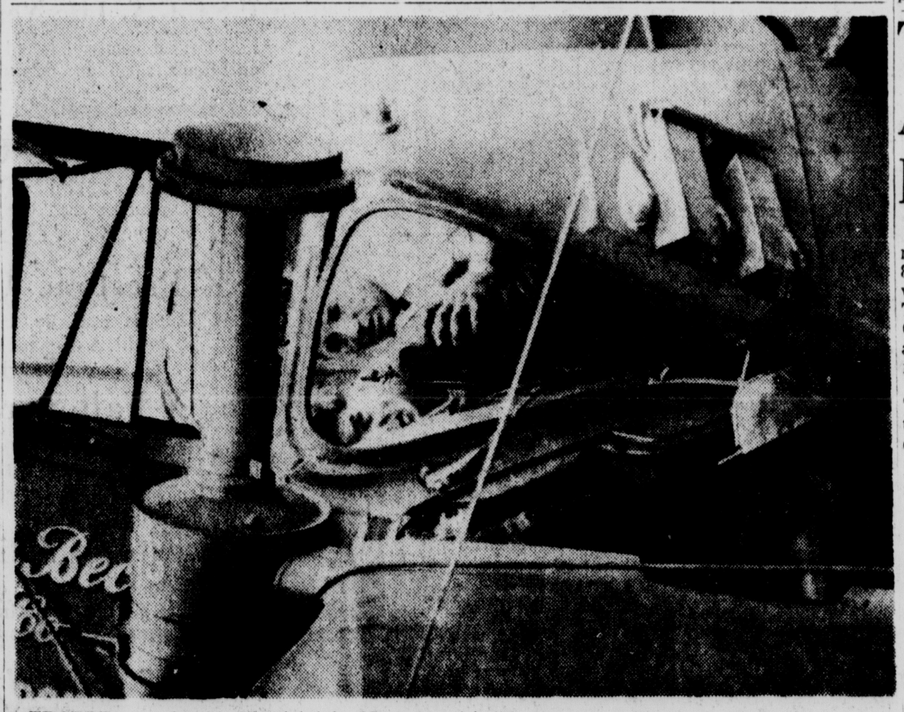

With this in mind, State Police have asked the FBI to forward Ray's dental records for a positive check against the victim's dental work, which Dr. Wilton M. Krogman, the Penn anthropologist, described as "of poor to medium workmanship" of the type that might be done in "a second floor dental parlor for $2" or perhaps a prison.

Dr. Krogman further described the victim as between 39 and 44 years old, about six feet tall, and having a round face with a high forehead and acquiline nose. (Records indicate Ray is 5-feet-11, 40 years old. He also has a high forehead and prominent nose.)

Russell said he still favors his first impression that the killing "was a gangland slaying' 'and indicated that the FBI also leans toward this theory. He said the FBI is asking all East Coast bureaus to check if any known gangsters are missing.

Joe D. Jamieson, agent-in-charge of the Phladelpha FBI office, refused to reveal details of his office's activities in the case but added, "Certainly Ray is one of the possibilities."

There was no indication when the FBI dental check would be completed.

TRAPPED — Joseph Koscielniak, 37, trapped inside the cab of his truck for five and one-half hours, gets some comforting aid from an unidentified off duty policeman in Detroit. Koscielniak, suffering only a broken leg, could have been removed sooner but police said they feared cutting torches would have harmed him. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Thruway Accident Kills Man

A 22-year-old Suffolk County man was killed shortly after 8 a. m. today when his sedan went out of control on the State Thruway south of the Greene County community of Catskill and crashed into a bridge abutment.

Leeds State Police and Troop T troopers investigated the fatility which occurred during a drizzle and on wet pavement.

The victim was identified as Kenneth George Judd of Deer Park, L. I. The cause of death was not immediately determined. A Greene County coroner assisted in the investigation which was conducted by BCI Investigator Joseph Valicenti of Leeds and Trooper Michael Stapleton of the Thruway detail.

The car was traveling south at the time of the mishap. The vehicle was heavily damaged, according to the investigating officers, who notified the next of kin of the fatality.

DeG Hopes Words Will End the Crisis

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle today brought forth his ultimate weapon—words—in an attempt to call back Frenchmen from the brink of revolution.

The 77-year-old apostle of the grandeur of France, his nation in chaos from paralyzing strikes and bloody student rioting, was speaking to his countrymen on radio and television at 8 p.m. (3 p.m. EDT). Words have won the general's battles before.

In 1940 De Gaulle's broadcasts from London to Nazi-occupied France rallied his people for liberation. De Gaulle's speeches during the Algerian crises eight years ago united a divided France.

Would he announce emergency powers? Would he plead for Frenchmen to think more of national glory than more pay, shorter hours, policy reform? His backers waited for a magic formula. Even his foes knew the power of De Gaulle's words. They too would listen, at least.

Students Will Listen

"March before the general's speech, pause to listen to it, then march again afterwards," proclaimed the militant students of the Latin Quarter early today after Thursday night's fresh rioting on the Left Bank.

Also ranged against the general's words were up to 10 million strikers, Communist-led workers organized for massive demonstrations in cities throughout France. Farmers too scheduled national protests against Gaullist policies.

Critical too were the police, an unhappy lot. Their unions warned the government Thursday not to systematically run the police against "workers fighting for their demands."

Less than 18 hours before De Gaulle's speaking time, students and middle-aged agitators battled police in the Boulevard St. Michel in front of the Sorbonne University. Police chased students onto Seine River islands. Clouds of sickly sweet tear gas burst in front of the Notre Dame Cathedral.

Tear Gas Used

Police fired round after round of the gas into crowds of 6,000 to 10,000 youths and their hundreds of agitators hurling bottles, bricks and hunks of metal.

Police said more than 200 persons including 78 policemen were injured, 210 persons including mostly adults and only 44 students were arrested, 60 fires started, 19 vehicles burned and nine barricades raised and swept away. "We face a day loaded with tension . . . thus today I asked people to be wise enough to postpone for 24 hours the demonstrations planned for today," Police Chief Maurice Grimaud of Paris said.

Premier Georges Pompidou, De Gaulle's chief lieutenant, announced that labor and industrial leaders have been invited to a round table meeting Saturday to begin undoing the general strike gripping France. Pompidou said he will chair the meeting at which each side can air its wants.

Both Roman Catholic and Communist unions agreed to attend but did not call off their strikes.

In Saarbruecken, Germany Daniel Cohn-Bendit, a leader of the Paris students rebellion prepared to march into France at the head of German student allies in defiance of a French government ban on his entry.

Cohn-Bendit, a German national and a Sorbonne student, planned to lead at least 1,000 German students in storming the Franco-German frontier to get Cohn-Bendit across. He had been out of France conferring with West German and Dutch student leaders when the French government announced the ban.

Premier Georges Pompidou, De Gaulle's chief lieutenant, announced that labor and industrial leaders have been invited to a round table meeting Saturday to begin undoing the general strike gripping France. Pompidou said he will chair the meeting at which each side can air its wants.

Both Roman Catholic and Communist unions agreed to attend but did not call off their strikes.

In Saarbruecken, Germany Daniel Cohn-Bendit, a leader of the Paris students rebellion prepared to march into France at the head of German student allies in defiance of a French government ban on his entry.

Cohn-Bendit, a German national and a Sorbonne student, planned to lead at least 1,000 German students in storming the Franco-German frontier to get Cohn-Bendit across. He had been out of France conferring with West German and Dutch student leaders when the French government announced the ban.

Dream of Space Scientists

Much of Rocket Program Saved From the Economy Axe

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Space Committee has apparently saved most of the space agency's nuclear powered rocket program from the congressional economy axe.

President Johnson's $60 million request for the Nerva program in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) budget, certainly faces some cutting, but not nearly so much as the House would have liked.

The House originally chopped the $60 million to $11.7 million. NASA Administrator James E. Webb said the sum would not even finance orderly cancelation of the project.

The Senate committee chaird by Clinton P. Andrson, D-N.M., has now approved a $55 million NASA outlay, and there are indications that the Senate itself will go along. Eventually a sum between $55 million and the $11.7 million authorized by the House must find its way into a subsequent appropriations bill.

Anderson has come a long way with the nuclear powered rocket. In the mid-1950s, before the Soviet Union's sputnik propelled the United States into the space race, Anderson, then chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, was pressing for development of a nuclear-powered missile.

It was then known as Project Rover. Even in the pre-sputnik period the nuclear rocket seemed to have possibilities as a weapon. In the space era it has been the dream of space scientists as a power plant for interplanetary space flights and for such tasks as resupplying space stations hovering over a given point on earth.

In fact, with Congress demanding cuts in expenditures, the Nerva project has become just a little bit too dreamy.

While military and civilian space scientists talk confidently of the ability of the Nerva engine to maneuver large payloads in space, they have not yet assigned it a mission. That is, they have not yet identified an approved U.S. space project which only the nuclear rocket could accomplish.

In addition, the entire space program has become a favorite target for congressional economizers. Strongly urging approval of the President's overall $4.4 billion request, Webb told Congress it was a bare bones budget. The House responded with only $4 billion in authorizations, and the Senate committee has recommended only $4.2 billion.

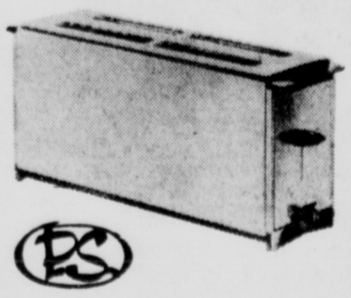

Two factors were instrumental in persuading the Senate committee to restore most of the House cuts for the nuclear powered rocket:

The investment to date: By the end of the present budget year more than $1.1 billion will have been spent on developing a nuclear powered rocket. In its report, the Senate committee said those sums, the knowledge gained and the scientific team now at work, would be wasted under the House-approved cuts.

Future prospects: The committee said a flyable nuclear rocket would be a "major advancement in space propulsion capability." Its report said: "Nearly everyone agrees that nuclear rocket propulsion will be required for space exploration, and attempts to reinstate the program at some future time would be extremely costly both in time and money."

FIRST ARRESTS — Police made their first arrests of participants in the Poor People's Campaign for demonstrating outside the Longworth House office building on Capitol Hill. Eighteen of approximately 200 marchers were charged with refusing to heed police orders to stop singing and praying outside the building. Here, police frisk several of the marchers before putting them in paddy wagon. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Arrests in Capital: First of 'Campaign'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Poor People's Campaign has sustained its first group arrests after a Capitol Hill demonstration that the movement's leader called unplanned and unfortunate.

The 12 adults and 6 juveniles arrested Thursday for singing and kneeling outside a House office building—banned as unlawful assembly on Capitol Hill—were released without bond in the custody of a campaign official.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and leader of the Poor People's Campaign, said no SCLC official was with the group but that this will be required in the future.

Not Quite Ready

"We are not quite ready to up the movement to mass arrests," one of Abernathy's lieutenants, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, told newsmen.

Jackson, "city manager" of the poor people's shantytown near the Lincoln Memorial, hustled to Capitol Hill after receiving word that arrests were being made.

Police had already sent two vans full of demonstrators off for booking—five more empties were waiting—before Jackson persuaded them to stop by promising all the remaining demonstrators would leave. The group had originally numbered about 200.

He said he also told the police, "If you arrest these, you'll have 3,000 more to deal with today and it would be a sound decision to call it off."

The incident pointed up the touchy leadership problems of the campaign. Though conceived by the SCLC, it embraces many groups which have brought to Washington leaders not in the SCLC hierarchy.

The marchers who went to the Longworth Office Building Thursday, for instance, were headed by George A. Wiley, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Association.

While the word from SCLC officials was that the time to shift the campaign to a pattern of civil disobedience had not arrived, Wiley's battle cry to the cheering demonstrators after the confrontation with police was: "This is only the beginning."

The marchers' mission was to see Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Blocked by Police

But the door to Mills' office was blocked by police. Some of the group, waiting outside on the sidewalk, began singing and kneeling in prayer. Police, after warning that his was illegal, began making arrests when the demonstration continued.

The demonstrators had gone to Mills' office to demand he call hearings so they could testify in favor of repealing a new welfare law which limits the number of dependent children eligible for welfare benefits. Mills sponsored the measure. He declined to see them.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman told Abernathy and other members of a delegation of poor people Thursday the federal food-stamp program will be expanded to 256 more counties by July 1.

The meeting was a follow-up to one held earlier this month at which campaign leaders left a list of demands.

City Dump Landfill Operation Action Promised at Meeting

Action to alleviate the source of complaints about the city dump landfill operation near Kingston Point was promised at the Thursday night session of Ulster County Citizens Committee for Clean Air held at the County Office Building.

Charles Keppel, chief liaison officer of the Hudson River Valley Commision, who attended in place of Alexander Aldrich, director, accepted this problem as within the commission's jurisdiction when the matter came up for discussion.

Investigation Planned

Complaints indicated that the landfill program of the city was not operating properly and was disregarding health standards. It was reported there was also burning on the dump and objections were made regarding the odor coming from the operation.

Keppel said he will advise the commission of this problem and they would investigate the matter.

Keppel said he will advise the commission of this problem and they would investigate the matter.

Keppel presented a slide program to show the accomplishments made in curbing water pollution. He said the efforts in this matter will result in a clean (Hudson) river by 1972. He pointed out that these same results are possible in curbing air pollution.

In his talk Keppel said the HRVC has not been given any authority by the State Legislature to act in these matters and that the agency acts as fact-finders and in an advisory capacity.

He stressed that the commission has secured agreements with many plants and municipalities along the river which will phase out the air pollution problem within the next few years. Several river plants and municipalities have installed or are planning to install devices to curb the air pollution that drifts to both shores of the river.

Keppel said the commission recognizes the sources of air pollution along the river but the commission can only study the problem. He said the local governments involved must solve the problems by legislation or be requesting the help of the State Legislature.

David Fletcher, chairman of the Clean Air Committee said he was disappointed that Aldrich, who was the scheduled speaker for the HRVC, could not be there. Fletcher said he had received a communication dated May 20 from Robert Cutter, director of public information of HRVC informing his committee that Aldrich could not attend the session. Cutter said he did not know the reason, but said possibly Aldrich was called to assist Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in his campaign to secure the GOP nomination for president.

Moving Slowly

Fletcher said that two city officials were among the 40 persons attending. He said two aldermen, John Machione, R-2nd Ward, and Clifford Sinsapaugh, D-L-10th Ward, members of the City Air Pollution Committee noted that the city group did not have a formal meeting on the topic as yet.

Among those attending were 10 Kingston High School students of the class of Mrs. Mildred De Witt, social studies teacher.

Fletcher said today that he believed his committee is making progress, but that things are moving slowly.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Thursday, June 27 at 8 p. m. in the Legislators Rooms of the County Office Building.

Show Film Clips At Dr. Spock Trial

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

BOSTON (AP) — Television films of Dr. Benjamin Spock standing on the steps of the Justice Department building in Washington, exhorting young men to continue resisting the draft, have been shown to a federal jury trying the pediatrician and four others on antidraft charges.

"Remember, the greatest weapon the government has is division and we must not attack each other, we must stick together," Spock was heard to say in the film of an antidraft rally last Oct. 20.

Also seen and heard in the films projected Thursday was another defendant, Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43.

On trial with the 65-year-old baby doctor and Coffin are Mitchell Goodman, 44, a New York writer and teacher; Marcus Raskin, 33, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a graduate student at Harvard. All are charged with conspiring to counsel, aid and abet young Americans to evade and avoid the draft.

The government contends that during the rally, Coffin, Spock, Goodman, Raskin and others attempted to hand over a briefcase containing 185 draft cards and 172 classification cards to John McDonough, an assistant deputy U.S. attorney general, at a meeting inside the building in a deliberate violation of Selectiv Service laws.

One of Several

The incident is one of several upon which the government based its indictments against the defendants, who face five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines if convicted.

Spock's remarks during the meeting, McDonough said, were confined to a condemnation of the Vietnam war and the claim that President Johnson was trying "to save face" by continuing the war.

McDonough did not accept the cards, but the government says the visitors left the briefcase on a table as they walked out.

Russell Sage Rebels Get Some Good News

TROY, N. Y. (AP) — Rebellious college students "have made their point" and only the "densest" college administration would fail to consider their views, the Russell Sage graduating class was told today.

Dr. Margery S. Foster, dean of Douglass College, the women's school at Rutgers University, gave these opinions in a talk for the commencement ceremonies for 372 Russell Sage women.

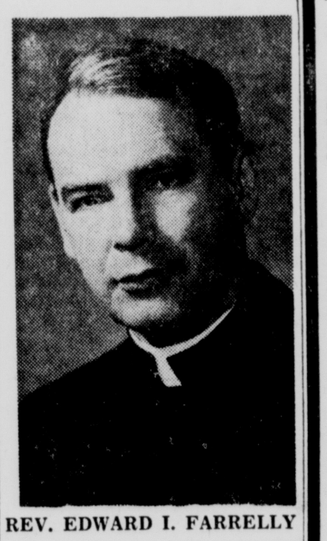

Miss Foster noted that many members of the college generation were saying they "can't wait for the old wheels to grind; it may be too late."

"And in much of this, in my opinion, they are correct," she added.

But, she said, "students who have infringed on the rights of others must expect to pay the penalty." She advised the graduates not to become "intellectually unemployed."

Miss Foster is a 1934 graduate of Wellesley College.

Investigation Planned

Complaints indicated that the landfill program of the city was not operating properly and was disregarding health standards. It was reported there was also burning on the dump and objections were made regarding the odor coming from the operation.

Keppel said he will advise the commission of this problem and they would investigate the matter.

Keppel said he will advise the commission of this problem and they would investigate the matter.

Keppel presented a slide program to show the accomplishments made in curbing water pollution. He said the efforts in this matter will result in a clean (Hudson) river by 1972. He pointed out that these same results are possible in curbing air pollution.

In his talk Keppel said the HRVC has not been given any authority by the State Legislature to act in these matters and that the agency acts as fact-finders and in an advisory capacity.

He stressed that the commission has secured agreements with many plants and municipalities along the river which will phase out the air pollution problem within the next few years. Several river plants and municipalities have installed or are planning to install devices to curb the air pollution that drifts to both shores of the river.

Keppel said the commission recognizes the sources of air pollution along the river but the commission can only study the problem. He said the local governments involved must solve the problems by legislation or be requesting the help of the State Legislature.

David Fletcher, chairman of the Clean Air Committee said he was disappointed that Aldrich, who was the scheduled speaker for the HRVC, could not be there. Fletcher said he had received a communication dated May 20 from Robert Cutter, director of public information of HRVC informing his committee that Aldrich could not attend the session. Cutter said he did not know the reason, but said possibly Aldrich was called to assist Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in his campaign to secure the GOP nomination for president.

Moving Slowly

Fletcher said that two city officials were among the 40 persons attending. He said two aldermen, John Machione, R-2nd Ward, and Clifford Sinsapaugh, D-L-10th Ward, members of the City Air Poliution Committee noted that the city group did not have a formal meeting on the topic as yet.

Among those attending were 10 Kingston High School students of the class of Mrs. Mildred De Witt, social studies teacher.

Fletcher said today that he believed his committee is making progress, but that things are moving slowly.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Thursday, June 27 at 8 p. m. in the Legislators Rooms of the County Office Building.

Show Film Clips At Dr. Spock Trial

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

BOSTON (AP) — Television films of Dr. Benjamin Spock standing on the steps of the Justice Department building in Washington, exhorting young men to continue resisting the draft, have been shown to a federal jury trying the pediatrician and four others on antidraft charges.

"Remember, the greatest weapon the government has is division and we must not attack each other, we must stick together," Spock was heard to say in the film of an antidraft rally last Oct. 20.

Also seen and heard in the films projected Thursday was another defendant, Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43.

On trial with the 65-year-old baby doctor and Coffin are Mitchell Goodman, 44, a New York writer and teacher; Marcus Raskin, 33, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a graduate student at Harvard. All are charged with conspiring to counsel, aid and abet young Americans to evade and avoid the draft.

The government contends that during the rally, Coffin, Spock, Goodman, Raskin and others attempted to hand over a briefcase containing 185 draft cards and 172 classification cards to John McDonough, an assistant deputy U.S. attorney general, at a meeting inside the building in a deliberate violation of Selectiv Service laws.

One of Several

The incident is one of several upon which the government based its indictments against the defendants, who face five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines if convicted.

Spock's remarks during the meeting, McDonough said, were confined to a condemnation of the Vietnam war and the claim that President Johnson was trying "to save face" by continuing the war.

McDonough did not accept the cards, but the government says the visitors left the briefcase on a table as they walked out.

Russell Sage Rebels Get Some Good News

TROY, N. Y. (AP) — Rebellious college students "have made their point" and only the "densest" college administration would fail to consider their views, the Russell Sage graduating class was told today.

Dr. Margery S. Foster, dean of Douglass College, the women's school at Rutgers University, gave these opinions in a talk for the commencement ceremonies for 372 Russell Sage women.

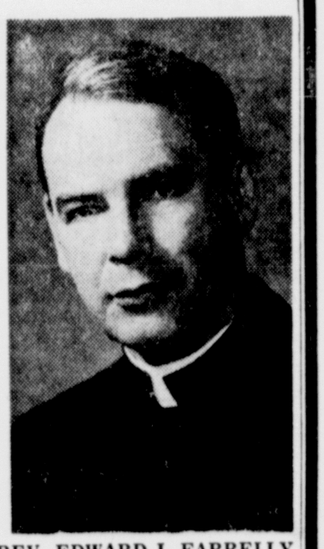

Miss Foster noted that many members of the college generation were saying they "can't wait for the old wheels to grind; it may be too late."

"And in much of this, in my opinion, they are correct," she added.

But, she said, "students who have infringed on the rights of others must expect to pay the penalty." She advised the graduates not to become "intellectually unemployed."

Miss Foster is a 1934 graduate of Wellesley College.

Private Property?

Little by little owners of private property are being deprived of their rights through rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States, David Lawrence points out in his column on this page. The Supreme Court's latest decision proclaimed that a private parking lot cannot be protected against picketing by labor-union advocates or by minority-group "demonstrators."

No account is taken in the majority opinion of the possible damage private property might suffer because of the "demonstrations." Just who will compensate the owner when his business is injured isn't recognized either.

Justice Hugo Black, in one of the dissenting opinions, held that whether the court liked it or not the Constitution recognizes and supports the concept of private ownership of property. He also noted, "The Fifth Amendment provides no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation."

If the Supreme Court is to continue to give such license to those who occupy or destroy private property without placing responsibility for the loss, what is going to become of private ownership and private enterprise?

This is the overriding question.

No Cause for Optimism

The second week of preliminary peace talks in Paris has ended with no cause for optimism. Nevertheless, there is great expectancy not only in the United States but throughout the world that miracles will be wrought to secure peace. The next session is scheduled for Monday.

If these preliminary talks fail to change the character of the war, when so many people look for them to reach a cease fire at least, then responsible voices are warning of the danger that a swing from peace fever to war fever could plunge the country into a deeper military involvement.

For instance, there is no deadline set for the limited bombing President Johnson prescribed March 31. He then excluded 90 per cent of North Vietnam's population and 70 per cent of the land areas from aerial attack. But continued stubbornness on the part of the North Vietnam delegation to do anything to reciprocate for this bombing curb could bring widespread demands to restore the bombing in full.

So long as Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator, persists in stressing fantasies and refuses to admit the well authenticated fact of North Vietnam involvement in the war, there is no where to go in these negotiations.

Thuy claims that there are no North Vietnamese troops fighting in South Vietnam, and that there is only one Vietnam, rather than a North and South Vietnam as there has been since the Geneva settlement of the Indochina question July 21, 1954, agreed to by North Vietnam.

American intelligence puts North Vietnamese troop strength in the South at 80,000 to 90,000 men, making up about three-fourths of all enemy forces throughout the country. This does not include the 60,000 or so guerrillas operating in small bands and consisting almost entirely of rebel Southern Viet Cong.

Until an agreement is reached on the facts of the war, how can there be any meeting of minds on what to do about them?

David Lawrence Says

Owners of Private Property Lose Rights

WASHINGTON — Nobody in official life would venture to exalt communism but, little by little, owners of private property are being deprived of their rights through rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States. The latest decision proclaims that, even though a number of stores may combine to have their own private parking lot, this cannot be protected against picketing by labor-union advocates or by minority-group "demonstrators."

The case decided this week by the high court overruled a Pennsylvania State Court which had enjoined picketing of the parcel-pickup area of a supermarket and the adjacent parking lot in a suburban shopping center. Justice Thurgood Marshall, however, in writing the majority opinion, dealt not merely with the activities of labor-union pickets who were trying to keep business away from stores whose employes were non-union, but also broadened picketing rights so as to include "consumers protesting shoddy or overpriced merchandise, and minority groups seeking nondiscriminatory hiring policies that a contrary decision here would have."

The net effect of the Supreme Court opinion is that a parking lot owned and operated by private businesses are nevertheless subject to picketing and "demonstrations." No account is taken of the possible losses or damage the retail stores might suffer because of the "demonstrations."

Justice Byron White, who was deputy attorney general during the administration of President Kennedy, wrote in a dissenting opinion:

"In no sense are any parts of the shopping center dedicated to the public for general purposes or the occupants of the plaza exercising official powers. The public is invited to the premises but only in order to do business with those who maintain establishments there. The invitation is to shop for the products which are sold. There is no general invitation to use the parking lot, the pick-up zone, or the sidewalk except as an adjunct to shopping.

"No one is invited to use the parking lot as a place to park his car while he goes elsewhere to work. The driveways and lanes for auto traffic are not offered for use as general thoroughfares leading from one public street to another. Those driveways and parking spaces are not public streets and thus available for parades, public meetings, or other activities for which public streets are used."

Justice Hugo Black, in another dissenting opinion, held that the state court's injunction was valid. He said:

"I believe that whether this court likes it or not the Constitution recognizes and supports the concept of private ownership of property. The Fifth Amendment provides that 'no person shall . . . be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.'

"This means to me that there is no right to picket on the private premises of another to try to convert the owner or others to the views of the pickets. It also means, I think, that if this court is going to arrogate to itself the power to act as the government's agent to take a part of Weis' property to give to the pickets for their use, the court should also award Weis just compensation for the property taken."

Although the case on which the decision was rendered this week arose out of picketing by labor unions, the ruling pens up the whole question of whether the premises of a retail establishment is a "public" place to which anybody can have access at any time for "communicative purposes"—such as arguing with customers in a store that they should refrain from buying goods until the owner changes his attitude on a public issue.

Certainly this is a broader interpretation of the "free speech" concept than has ever been rendered before by the Supreme Court of the United States. The significance of the ruling may have far-reaching effects not merely on labor-union controversies but on the rights of "demonstrators" and crusaders to intrude on private property.

The real question is who is going to compensate the store owner when his business is directly injured by the license now apparently given by the Supreme Court to "demonstrators" or pickets to damage at will the owner of any business without incurring any responsibility for the loss.

Ho Chi Minh, U.S. 'Ally' Used Aid to Grab Viet Toehold

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

HONG KONG (NEA)—This reporter's own first personal knowledge of Ho Chi Minh's activities came in World War II.

Ho arranged to have his underground organization work for U.S. military agencies.

While this reporter was concerned with operations in China, not Indochina, in World War II, he had close contact with American military men who were first-hand observers of Ho's activities at that time.

Ho's men were used as trail watchers to report on the movement of Japanese vehicles, arms and troops, and as coast watchers to report on the movement of Japanese ships.

His men were also used to aid U.S. Air Crops pilots and crewmen forced down or shot down in Japanese-occupied areas of northern French Indochina. Ho's principal mission in this field was to help these Americans get out of Japanese territory into non-occupied areas of China.

Ho's men were charged with some sabotage operations against the Japanese. Ho also promised to conduct guerrilla war against the Japanese rear if given sufficient arms.

To accomplish this promised guerrilla activity, Ho was given considerable amounts of U.S. equipment and supplies—considering the size of his force.

These included rifles, light machine guns, portable radios and an array of other military goods. It is understood, for example, that he was given several hundred American light machine guns.

Ho, however, made very little use of these weapons and ammunition against the Japanese.

Instead, he used this armament largely to build his own strength in what is now North Vietnam. Rival groups were put down or forced under Ho's command, in part through the superiority these arms gave him.

But by and large, Ho preserved his weapons and equipment for use in his post-World War II struggle for control of northern Indochina.

When the Japanese were disarmed at the end of World War II, Ho picked up additional weapons and equipment. Rival groups, with lesser amounts of pick-me-up arms, stood little chance against Ho.

By destroying, severely weakening or absorbing other organizations, Ho's group was able to establish its dominance in the far northern area of Vietnam.

To insure his own victory, Ho had given a considerable number of non-Communists prominent roles in his organization. This gave his front the aura of a popular democratic group.

But as Ho grew certain of victory over the French, he gradually began to purge non-Communists from key posts in his organization.

To separate the Communists from non-Communists, Ho organized classes for his high-ranking officers and civilian cadres. Those who entered the classes and did well in Marxist theory and who otherwise proved their devotion to communism moved up. Those who did not meet these stern tests were sacrificed to the French, shifted to dead-end posts, murdered or ousted and allowed to leave with their lives.

Considerable numbers of the most determined military and civilian anti-Communists in South Vietnam today are officials, officers or guerrillas who were under Ho in the war against the French.

Drew Pearson Says

Bobby Kennedy, Despite His Denials, Was a Wiretapper

ANOTHER KOREAN WAR

On Feb. 18, 1968, Jack Anderson, writing from Seoul, Korea, reported that North Korea might launch an attack against the South. Since then several other journalists have reported the same thing. On May 19 the Washington Post front-paged a dispatch from its correspondent in Seoul, Richard Halloran, predicting the probability "that North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung will strike South Korea with a large-scale assault this year."

WASHINGTON — The question of whether Bobby Kennedy, when Attorney General, ordered wide-scale wiretapping and eavesdropping by the FBI has become the subject of some controversy. It is also very important in gauging Kennedy's qualifications to be President, and whether he is telling the truth. After all, the matter of the credibility gap has become something of an issue these days.

In this connection, this column has learned that, when Attorney General, Mr. Kennedy ordered a wiretap put on the phone of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Kennedy denies this and other statements that he ordered or condoned the wide-scale wiretapping or eavesdropping undertaken by the FBI while he commanded the Justice Department. He states that nowhere in the Justice Department is there to be found a single eavesdrop order signed by him.

However, the facts in the eavesdropping on Dr. King are irrefutable and we can report them in detail.

Attorney General Kennedy first ordered Dr. King bugged on July 16, 1963. His reason was that King was in touch with various Communists and was being influenced by them.

The order caused surprise in the FBI. During the 1960 election campaign both Bobby and his brother, the late President, had offered to help Dr. King when he was arrested in Atlanta Oct. 19 and refused to post bond in connection with a civil-rights sit-in.

John F. Kennedy even issued a press release offering to help King, a gesture which had important effect on the Negro vote three weeks later. In Cook County it was the Negro vote which gave Kennedy his slender 8,000 vote margin in Illinois and won him the presidency.

FBI Objects

When, therefore, the brother of the President ordered a wiretap on Dr. King's phone, the FBI was amazed and opposed it. Courtney Evans, who served as liaison officer between J. Edgar Hoover and Bobby Kennedy, told the Attorney General that King traveled a lot, so a wiretap might not be too effective. Also he said that the wiretap would have a bad reaction among Negroes if discovered. The Attorney General remarked that he was not in the least interested in repercussions.

He did not press the matter, and so the FBI did not place any taps on King's wire in July, 1963.

However, in October of that year Bobby Kennedy signed an order for a tap on King's wires, and thereafter King's phone conversations were monitored.

This may have been why the highly publicized confrontation between King and J. Edgar Hoover turned out the way it did.

On Nov. 18, 1964, Hoover called Dr. King "the most notorious liar in the country" after King had urged civil-rights workers not to report violence to the FBI on the ground that FBI agents were Southerners who would take no action.

King hurried to Washington for a showdown with Hoover. Emerging from the FBI director's office after their conference, King made a statement surprisingly favorable to the FBI. He had no criticism for Hoover. Intimates have told us that King suspected Hoover was tapping his wires. However, King never realized that the person who originally ordered the monitoring was Robert F. Kennedy, the man who had offered to help get King out of jail. Later Kennedy was one of the most headlined mourners at King's funeral.

However, we can report that the FBI faithfully carried on Kennedy's original instructions and submitted regular reports on King's activities—right up until the time of his death.

King's Private Life

These dealt in part with a communist who was helping to write King's speeches; in part with his sex life. They are considered of some importance now in trying to track down King's assassin.

One report written Feb. 20, 1968, quoted a confidential informant as claiming that Dr. King "has been having an illicit love affair with the wife of a prominent Negro dentist in Los Angeles since 1962.

"King calls this woman every Wednesday and meets her in various cities throughout the country.

"The source related an incident which occurred some time ago in a New York City hotel, where King was intoxicated at a small gathering. King threatened to leap from the 13th floor window of the hotel if this woman would not say she loved him."

The wiretaps on King's phone also led to the reporting of King's movements around the country and various persons to whom he talked. These have been checked out for enemies and those who might be interested in assassinating King. This was why the FBI tracked down the lady reported in the Feb. 20 report and checked on the possibility that an irate husband might have sought revenge on King. The trail led up a blind alley. The husband was not the type who, if he knew, would harbor revenge.

The King wiretap was probably the most sensational of the taps inspired or ordered by Bobby Kennedy when he was Attorney General, but it was by no means the only one. This phase of his government career has been scrutinized only casually in the past. However, the public has a right to know all of his record before voting on his qualifications to be President.

Polish Jews to USA

President Johnson has been discussing with Secretary of State Dean Rusk a plan to invite all of the Polish Jews who have been under attack in Poland to find a haven in the United States.

Unless there is legal objection, the plan should be announced shortly.

President Johnson feels that the United States should continue its position of being a haven for oppressed peoples, and Secretary Rusk has agreed with him.

A great many Jews fled to the United States following Hitler's advent to power, after 1932 and before war broke out in 1939. Some managed to escape even later. President Johnson feels that they have become excellent American citizens and have made a contribution to the culture and economics of the United States.

There is a total of approximately 30,000 Jews remaining in Poland, and in the last few months they have been under attack by the right wing of the Communist party for allegedly proposing democratic reforms. These reforms are similar to those which have been achieved in Czechoslovakia, though in Poland less progress has been made. Apparently looking for political scapegoats, one wing of the Communist party has started a campaign of anti-Semitism. Premier Gomulka has sought to discourage this campaign but nevertheless it is reported that anti-Semitism continues to exist on a wide scale.

Legal experts in the State Department believe that the President could invite 30,000 Jews into the United States without going to Congress for authority. They argue that the quotas of a good many other countries are unfilled; therefore, the admission of 30,000 Poles would not change the immigration totals into the United States during the current year.

Political Deals Inevitable In Creation of New Judgeships

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—There may or may not have been any political deals made before the legislature voted to create those 125 new judgeships—but you can bet there will be now.

It's inevitable because, for county chairmen and other local political leaders, slicing up patronage is a way of life. And judgeships are the juiciest of political plums.

The reason that judgeships are valued beyond most other public offices is threefold:

—First is the fact that a high percentage of men active in politics are lawyers, for whom ascending to the bench represents the peak of professional success. For many, it's a lifetime ambition.

—Equally important is that most judgeships pay handsome salaries or offer the clear prospect of a move eventually from a lower court to a more lucrative, higher court.

—Finally there is the security factor. The better judgeships carry terms ranging up to 4 years, with re-election almost guaranteed. The long-standing custom in this state is for the major parties to endorse incumbent judges of the higher courts for re-election without regard to their politics.

All of these factors conspire to stir the most aggressive emotions in the breasts of politicians when judicial openings beckon.

Although there has been no wholesale expansion of the judiciary in more than two decades, there have been occasional seats created. These, plus the usual vacancies caused by death or retirement, have given the political wheelers and dealers enough experience for the forthcoming exercise.

In areas of the state where one party is overwhelmingly strong, the maneuvering is likely to be strictly intramural. The "ins" compete among themselves for the plums, while the "outs" look on sorrowfully.

That's usually the case, for example, in heavily Democratic New York City.

Work Out a Deal

More often, however, the political balance is not so decisively weighted. In such situations, especially when there are two or three judgeships of equivalent value at stake, the politicians often find it more expedient to work out a deal, rather than try to win all—or risk losing everything—at the polls.

In districts of roughly equal balance, it may become a one-for-you, one-for-me proposition. Each party chooses one candidate and each endorses the other's choice, thus assuring a no-contest election. Sometimes it's two-for-me, one-for-you, if one of the parties has a superior capacity to win all the marbles.

Often as not, the strongest local political leader chooses himself as his party's candidate. Many a county chairman has gone on to the bench. His successor may take the job with the same goal.

Politicians defend these arrangements by arguing that it's in the best interest of the people to "keep the courts out of politics"—to avoid contested elections in which rival candidates level criticism that may impair public confidence in the eventual winner.

Some argue, however, that it deprives the public of its opportunity to make a choice and enables men of questionable ability to slip into sensitive judicial posts.

Senate Majorty Leader Earl W. Brydges believes he has the answer — a system of screening panels to recommend qualified candidates.

It's not likely to prove popular with the deal-makers.

So long as Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator, persists in stressing fantasies and refuses to admit the well authenticated fact of North Vietnam involvement in the war, there is no where to go in these negotiations.

Thuy claims that there are no North Vietnamese troops fighting in South Vietnam, and that there is only one Vietnam, rather than a North and South Vietnam as there has been since the Geneva settlement of the Indochina question July 21, 1954, agreed to by North Vietnam.

American intelligence puts North Vietnamese troop strength in the South at 80,000 to 90,000 men, making up about three-fourths of all enemy forces throughout the country. This does not include the 60,000 or so guerrillas operating in small bands and consisting almost entirely of rebel Southern Viet Cong.

Until an agreement is reached on the facts of the war, how can there be any meeting of minds on what to do about them?

Owners of Private Property Lose Rights

WASHINGTON — Nobody in official life would venture to exalt communism but, little by little, owners of private property are being deprived of their rights through rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States. The latest decision proclaims that, even though a number of stores may combine to have their own private parking lot, this cannot be protected against picketing by labor-union advocates or by minority-group "demonstrators."

The case decided this week by the high court overruled a Pennsylvania State Court which had enjoined picketing of the parcel-pickup area of a supermarket and the adjacent parking lot in a suburban shopping center. Justice Thurgood Marshall, however, in writing the majority opinion, dealt not merely with the activities of labor-union pickets who were trying to keep business away from stores whose employes were non-union, but also broadened picketing rights so as to include "consumers protesting shoddy or overpriced merchandise, and minority groups seeking nondiscriminatory hiring policies that a contrary decision here would have."

The net effect of the Supreme Court opinion is that a parking lot owned and operated by private businesses are nevertheless subject to picketing and "demonstrations." No account is taken of the possible losses or damage the retail stores might suffer because of the "demonstrations."

Justice Byron White, who was deputy attorney general during the administration of President Kennedy, wrote in a dissenting opinion:

"In no sense are any parts of the shopping center dedicated to the public for general purposes or the occupants of the plaza exercising official powers. The public is invited to the premises but only in order to do business with those who maintain establishments there. The invitation is to shop for the products which are sold. There is no general invitation to use the parking lot, the pick-up zone, or the sidewalk except as an adjunct to shopping.

"No one is invited to use the parking lot as a place to park his car while he goes elsewhere to work. The driveways and lanes for auto traffic are not offered for use as general thoroughfares leading from one public street to another. Those driveways and parking spaces are not public streets and thus available for parades, public meetings, or other activities for which public streets are used."

Justice Hugo Black, in another dissenting opinion, held that the state court's injunction was valid. He said:

"I believe that whether this court likes it or not the Constitution recognizes and supports the concept of private ownership of property. The Fifth Amendment provides that 'no person shall . . . be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.'

"This means to me that there is no right to picket on the private premises of another to try to convert the owner or others to the views of the pickets. It also means, I think, that if this court is going to arrogate to itself the power to act as the government's agent to take a part of Weis' property to give to the pickets for their use, the court should also award Weis just compensation for the property taken."

Although the case on which the decision was rendered this week arose out of picketing by labor unions, the ruling pens up the whole question of whether the premises of a retail establishment is a "public" place to which anybody can have access at any time for "communicative purposes"—such as arguing with customers in a store that they should refrain from buying goods until the owner changes his attitude on a public issue.

Certainly this is a broader interpretation of the "free speech" concept than has ever been rendered before by the Supreme Court of the United States. The significance of the ruling may have far-reaching effects not merely on labor-union controversies but on the rights of "demonstrators" and crusaders to intrude on private property.

The real question is who is going to compensate the store owner when his business is directly injured by the license now apparently given by the Supreme Court to "demonstrators" or pickets to damage at will the owner of any business without incurring any responsibility for the loss.

Bobby Kennedy, Despite His Denials, Was a Wiretapper

ANOTHER KOREAN WAR

On Feb. 18, 1968, Jack Anderson, writing from Seoul, Korea, reported that North Korea might launch an attack against the South. Since then several other journalists have reported the same thing. On May 19 the Washington Post front-paged a dispatch from its correspondent in Seoul, Richard Halloran, predicting the probability "that North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung will strike South Korea with a large-scale assault this year."

WASHINGTON — The question of whether Bobby Kennedy, when Attorney General, ordered wide-scale wiretapping and eavesdropping by the FBI has become the subject of some controversy. It is also very important in gauging Kennedy's qualifications to be President, and whether he is telling the truth. After all, the matter of the credibility gap has become something of an issue these days.

In this connection, this column has learned that, when Attorney General, Mr. Kennedy ordered a wiretap put on the phone of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Kennedy denies this and other statements that he ordered or condoned the wide-scale wiretapping or eavesdropping undertaken by the FBI while he commanded the Justice Department. He states that nowhere in the Justice Department is there to be found a single eavesdrop order signed by him.

However, the facts in the eavesdropping on Dr. King are irrefutable and we can report them in detail.

Attorney General Kennedy first ordered Dr. King bugged on July 16, 1963. His reason was that King was in touch with various Communists and was being influenced by them.

The order caused surprise in the FBI. During the 1960 election campaign both Bobby and his brother, the late President, had offered to help Dr. King when he was arrested in Atlanta Oct. 19 and refused to post bond in connection with a civil-rights sit-in.

John F. Kennedy even issued a press release offering to help King, a gesture which had important effect on the Negro vote three weeks later. In Cook County it was the Negro vote which gave Kennedy his slender 8,000 vote margin in Illinois and won him the presidency.

FBI Objects

When, therefore, the brother of the President ordered a wiretap on Dr. King's phone, the FBI was amazed and opposed it. Courtney Evans, who served as liaison officer between J. Edgar Hoover and Bobby Kennedy, told the Attorney General that King traveled a lot, so a wiretap might not be too effective. Also he said that the wiretap would have a bad reaction among Negroes if discovered. The Attorney General remarked that he was not in the least interested in repercussions.

He did not press the matter, and so the FBI did not place any taps on King's wire in July, 1963.

However, in October of that year Bobby Kennedy signed an order for a tap on King's wires, and thereafter King's phone conversations were monitored.

This may have been why the highly publicized confrontation between King and J. Edgar Hoover turned out the way it did.

On Nov. 18, 1964, Hoover called Dr. King "the most notorious liar in the country" after King had urged civil-rights workers not to report violence to the FBI on the ground that FBI agents were Southerners who would take no action.

King hurried to Washington for a showdown with Hoover. Emerging from the FBI director's office after their conference, King made a statement surprisingly favorable to the FBI. He had no criticism for Hoover. Intimates have told us that King suspected Hoover was tapping his wires. However, King never realized that the person who originally ordered the monitoring was Robert F. Kennedy, the man who had offered to help get King out of jail. Later Kennedy was one of the most headlined mourners at King's funeral.

However, we can report that the FBI faithfully carried on Kennedy's original instructions and submitted regular reports on King's activities—right up until the time of his death.

King's Private Life

These dealt in part with a communist who was helping to write King's speeches; in part with his sex life. They are considered of some importance now in trying to track down King's assassin.

One report written Feb. 20, 1968, quoted a confidential informant as claiming that Dr. King "has been having an illicit love affair with the wife of a prominent Negro dentist in Los Angeles since 1962.

"King calls this woman every Wednesday and meets her in various cities throughout the country.

"The source related an incident which occurred some time ago in a New York City hotel, where King was intoxicated at a small gathering. King threatened to leap from the 13th floor window of the hotel if this woman would not say she loved him."

The wiretaps on King's phone also led to the reporting of King's movements around the country and various persons to whom he talked. These have been checked out for enemies and those who might be interested in assassinating King. This was why the FBI tracked down the lady reported in the Feb. 20 report and checked on the possibility that an irate husband might have sought revenge on King. The trail led up a blind alley. The husband was not the type who, if he knew, would harbor revenge.

The King wiretap was probably the most sensational of the taps inspired or ordered by Bobby Kennedy when he was Attorney General, but it was by no means the only one. This phase of his government career has been scrutinized only casually in the past. However, the public has a right to know all of his record before voting on his qualifications to be President.

Polish Jews to USA

President Johnson has been discussing with Secretary of State Dean Rusk a plan to invite all of the Polish Jews who have been under attack in Poland to find a haven in the United States.

Unless there is legal objection, the plan should be announced shortly.

President Johnson feels that the United States should continue its position of being a haven for oppressed peoples, and Secretary Rusk has agreed with him.

A great many Jews fled to the United States following Hitler's advent to power, after 1932 and before war broke out in 1939. Some managed to escape even later. President Johnson feels that they have become excellent American citizens and have made a contribution to the culture and economics of the United States.

There is a total of approximately 30,000 Jews remaining in Poland, and in the last few months they have been under attack by the right wing of the Communist party for allegedly proposing democratic reforms. These reforms are similar to those which have been achieved in Czechoslovakia, though in Poland less progress has been made. Apparently looking for political scapegoats, one wing of the Communist party has started a campaign of anti-Semitism. Premier Gomulka has sought to discourage this campaign but nevertheless it is reported that anti-Semitism continues to exist on a wide scale.

Legal experts in the State Department believe that the President could invite 30,000 Jews into the United States without going to Congress for authority. They argue that the quotas of a good many other countries are unfilled; therefore, the admission of 30,000 Poles would not change the immigration totals into the United States during the current year.

Ho Chi Minh, U.S. 'Ally' Used Aid to Grab Viet Toehold

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

HONG KONG (NEA)—This reporter's own first personal knowledge of Ho Chi Minh's activities came in World War II.

Ho arranged to have his underground organization work for U.S. military agencies.

While this reporter was concerned with operations in China, not Indochina, in World War II, he had close contact with American military men who were first-hand observers of Ho's activities at that time.

Ho's men were used as trail watchers to report on the movement of Japanese vehicles, arms and troops, and as coast watchers to report on the movement of Japanese ships.

His men were also used to aid U.S. Air Crops pilots and crewmen forced down or shot down in Japanese-occupied areas of northern French Indochina. Ho's principal mission in this field was to help these Americans get out of Japanese territory into non-occupied areas of China.

Ho's men were charged with some sabotage operations against the Japanese. Ho also promised to conduct guerrilla war against the Japanese rear if given sufficient arms.

To accomplish this promised guerrilla activity, Ho was given considerable amounts of U.S. equipment and supplies—considering the size of his force.

These included rifles, light machine guns, portable radios and an array of other military goods. It is understood, for example, that he was given several hundred American light machine guns.

Ho, however, made very little use of these weapons and ammunition against the Japanese.

Instead, he used this armament largely to build his own strength in what is now North Vietnam. Rival groups were put down or forced under Ho's command, in part through the superiority these arms gave him.

But by and large, Ho preserved his weapons and equipment for use in his post World War II struggle for control of northern Indochina.

When the Japanese were disarmed at the end of World War II, Ho picked up additional weapons and equipment. Rival groups, with lesser amounts of pick-me-up arms, stood little chance against Ho.

By destroying, severely weakening or absorbing other organizations, Ho's group was able to establish its dominance in the far northern area of Vietnam.

To insure his own victory, Ho had given a considerable number of non-Communists prominent roles in his organization. This gave his front the aura of a popular democratic group.

But as Ho grew certain of victory over the French, he gradually began to purge non-Communists from key posts in his organization.

To separate the Communists from non-Communists, Ho organized classes for his high-ranking officers and civilian cadres. Those who entered the classes and did well in Marxist theory and who otherwise proved their devotion to communism moved up. Those who did not meet these stern tests were sacrificed to the French, shifted to dead-end posts, murdered or ousted and allowed to leave with their lives.

Considerable numbers of the most determined military and civilian anti-Communists in South Vietnam today are officials, officers or guerrillas who were under Ho in the war against the French.

Political Deals Inevitable In Creation of New Judgeships

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—There may or may not have been any political deals made before the legislature voted to create those 125 new judgeships—but you can bet there will be now.

It's inevitable because, for county chairmen and other local political leaders, slicing up patronage is a way of life. And judgeships are the juiciest of political plums.

The reason that judgeships are valued beyond most other public offices is threefold:

—First is the fact that a high percentage of men active in politics are lawyers, for whom ascending to the bench represents the peak of professional success. For many, it's a lifetime ambition.

—Equally important is that most judgeships pay handsome salaries or offer the clear prospect of a move eventually from a lower court to a more lucrative, higher court.

—Finally there is the security factor. The better judgeships carry terms ranging up to 4 years, with re-election almost guaranteed. The long-standing custom in this state is for the major parties to endorse incumbent judges of the higher courts for re-election without regard to their politics.

All of these factors conspire to stir the most aggressive emotions in the breasts of politicians when judicial openings beckon.

Although there has been no wholesale expansion of the judiciary in more than two decades, there have been occasional seats created. These, plus the usual vacancies caused by death or retirement, have given the political wheelers and dealers enough experience for the forthcoming exercise.

In areas of the state where one party is overwhelmingly strong, the maneuvering is likely to be strictly intramural. The "ins" compete among themselves for the plums, while the "outs" look on sorrowfully.

That's usually the case, for example, in heavily Democratic New York City.

Work Out a Deal

More often, however, the political balance is not so decisively weighted. In such situations, especially when there are two or three judgeships of equivalent value at stake, the politicians often find it more expedient to work out a deal, rather than try to win all—or risk losing everything—at the polls.

In districts of roughly equal balance, it may become a one-for-you, one-for-me proposition. Each party chooses one candidate and each endorses the other's choice, thus assuring a no-contest election. Sometimes it's two-for-me, one-for-you, if one of the parties has a superior capacity to win all the marbles.

Often as not, the strongest local political leader chooses himself as his party's candidate. Many a county chairman has gone on to the bench. His successor may take the job with the same goal.

Politicians defend these arrangements by arguing that it's in the best interest of the people to "keep the courts out of politics"—to avoid contested elections in which rival candidates level criticism that may impair public confidence in the eventual winner.

Some argue, however, that it deprives the public of its opportunity to make a choice and enables men of questionable ability to slip into sensitive judicial posts.

Senate Majorty Leader Earl W. Brydges believes he has the answer — a system of screening panels to recommend qualified candidates.

It's not likely to prove popular with the deal-makers.

Inheritance Might Grow Faster by Diversifying

Q — Three years ago I inherited 200 shares of U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty, then trading in the mid-60s. Now it's 20 points lower — what happened? Dividends are increased regularly and I'd like to hold for my old age unless you think I should sell some.—J.B.

A — Your company is a leader in casualty and surety underwriting, but insurance stocks have generally lost favor with investors who nowadays seem to want faster action. Historically, the industry goes through extended cycles of rising and falling price loss of favor among investors.

As this evidently is your only stock holding, I'd like to suggest that you sell 100 shares and divide the proceeds between two growth stocks which I have recently mentioned: Deseret Pharmaceutical (ASE) and Jewel Companies, a diversified retailer of food, drugs and general merchandise. This move should step up long-term capital gains in planning for your retirement. Jewel pays a cash dividend and Deseret follows a generous stock dividend policy.

Q — Could you please explain to me how much one would have to invest each month to realize a certain percentage on the money?—C.L.

A — Gladly. Regardless of how much capital you invest or on what basis—lump sum or Monthly Investment Plan—the highest percentage return you could hope to receive from dividends, consistent with safety, would average 5-5½ per cent on common stocks and possibly 6-6½ per cent on bonds. An investment of $1,000 could yield $50 to $65 a year, or $4.50 to $5.41 a month. Should you want to set up a monthly income of $300—or $3,600 annually—you would need to invest $72,000 at 5 per cent. Dividend yields on stable companies tend to parallel bank interest rates although sometimes they may be somewhat higher. Conversely, they are lower in strong growth situations where earnings are plowed back into research and corporate expansion.

Houses Passes Joe's Bill on Aid to Widows

A bill offered by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, to provide educational assistance for widows of U.S. Veterans, has passed the House and is slated to be taken up by the Senate later this session.

The measure, which Congressman Resnick originally introduced in 1966, and which he labelled, An Educational GI Bill for Vietnam Widows, extends the provision of the War Orphan's Educational Program to widows of persons who died of a service-connected disability.

Wives of persons who are totally disabled as the result of a service-connected injury or disease are also covered in the bill. Such widows and wives would be eligible for educational assistance for 36 months at $130 a month.

Resnick, a New York Democrat, is a member of the Veterans Affairs Committee.

He indicated that he originally conceived the idea for the bill after one of his constituents, a widow whose husband had been killed in Vietnam, told him that it would be easier for her to make a living and raise her five children if she could go to college and train for a career.

"I think everyone will agree that there are few things more important today than education. In order to make a decent living in our highly complex world, either a college or other specialized educations is virtually a minimum requirement," Congressman Resnick said.

"We try in every possible way to provide for widows of the men who served to defend our country in the far corners of the world, but this is one area that has been overlooked. I am proud and pleased that steps are finally being taken to correct this."

New Paltz Head Is in Accord With Students

The president of the State University College at New Paltz declared today that he believes in students partaking in decision-making at the administrative level; a congressional candidate disagreed with that view, and the students themselves are voting for representatives to a faculty-student committee.

Dr. John H. Jacobson, acting president of the college, said that he would work with the yet-to-be-formed faculty-student commission and that he is in agreement with the idea that students "are obviously in a position to judge how capable a teacher is in his classroom presentation of material."

G. Gordon Liddy, continuing in his fight to win the Republican nomination for Congress, said that student participation in the hiring, retaining, and firing of professors "sets a dangerous precedent.

"Giving a voice to students over whom shall be hired and fired and reappointed, virtually places a sword over every teacher's head at the college. The resolution gives students too much authority in matters for which they are not yet qualified," Liddy declared.

Students today are voting to send a five man slate to join a five-man faculty slate in the formation of the newly agreed upon committee.

Meanwhile, Professor Roger Knapp continues to remain locked in self-imposed exile in a conference room within the college's administration building. Reportedly, he has not eaten since Monday afternoon.

Woman Killed By Earthquake In New Zealand

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI)—An earthquake so strong it shifted bridges and knocked a train from its tracks rumbled down the west coast of New Zealand today.

At least one person was known dead—a woman killed when a landslide swept over her home—and 15 persons were injured, officials said.

The shocks were felt as far away as Auckland where Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth of Britain, spent the night during a tour of New Zealand. Scientists put the quake's intensity at seven on the open-end Richter scale.

Worst hit was the village of Inangahua where officials said 70 per cent of the houses were destroyed and the rest were so badly damaged they were useless. The village and its surrounding area had a population of more than 1,200 persons.

In Greymouth, largest city of the west coast, several buildings were evacuated when wide cracks appeared in their walls.

Officials said the quake cut road and railroad links along a 130-mile strip of the coast. Roads were closed by large cracks, bridges were knocked askew and a train was derailed.

Two Upstaters Added to the Vietnam Toll

Two more servicemen from upstate New York have been killed in combat in South Vietnam.

Army Pfc. Dale A. Hill, 20, of Fort Ann, northeast of Glens Falls, died May 21. Army officials told Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hill, the vehicle in which their son was riding hit an enemy mine near Saigon.

Hill was drafted nine months ago and had been in Vietnam since March.

The Defense Department reported Thursday the death of Army Cpl. Raymond L. Cook of Gouverneur, northeast of Watertown. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Cook.

Gestapo Police, NAACP Charge In Newburgh

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Recent Newburgh racial disturbances brought out political charges today from an NAACP official who accused officials in this small, upstate community of creating "a gestapo police machine."

The city's mayor, in turn, countered with statements that civil rights groups are being used as "dupes" for political gain.

Samuel A. T. Hodge, Jr., of the Newburgh NAACP, said that a civil disturbance early this month was "a direct result of mishandling of a childish affair by a bunch of amateurs in city hall."

Hodge accused the Republican city administration of hiding "themselves in city hall and creating a gestapo police machine to fight the phantom crime in the streets."

Mayor George S. McKneally countered by calling Hodge's remarks "a continuing political attack" and added that local civil rights groups were being "used as dupes by politicians."

The civil disturbance which prompted these remarks resulted from dispursing of a crowd gathered for an unauthorized drag race on a city street on May 4.

Sentenced to Attica

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 22-year-old Buffalo man has been sentenced to serve 25 years to life in Attica State Prison on a plea of guilty to second-degree murder.

Judge Frederick M. Marshall, of Erie County Court, sentenced Martin J. Cleary Monday.

Cleary was charged in the fatal beating of Sidney H. Payne, 47, also of Buffalo on Dec. 20, 1966.

Two other Buffalo men, Ronald F. Babchak, 27, and Wayne F. Trimmer, 24, are serving life terms in Attica after conviction on charges of first-degree murder in the case.

Overcome by Smoke After Rescuing Son

A Saugerties man was overcome by smoke Thursday when he dashed into a bedroom of his home on Gurth Lane in Saugerties to rescue his 3½-year-old son after fire erupted in a wastebasket in a bedroom of the ranch-type house.

Robert G. Carpenter was administered oxygen by attendants of the Saugerties Ambulance Service and later was treated by his family physician, who determined hospitalization was not necessary.

Saugerties fire units were dispatched to the Carpenter home at about 5:40 p. m. after the fire was reported. Chief George Warringer was in command of firemen from the Hook & Ladder Co., Snyder Hose and C. A. Lynch Fire Company. The Exempt Firemen responded with a truck and assisted in directing traffic until the apparatus returned to the firehouse.

Fire Commissioner Donald McCaig said the fire started in a wastepaper basket in a bedroom and ignited clothes that were on a clothes tree nearby. Dense smoke swept through the entire house, but fire damage reportedly was confined to the wastebasket. Clothes and a wall was scorched.

Two firemen entered the house wearing Scot Airpacks to locate the fire and remove the burning basket and clothes, an official said. Dry chemical was used to quell the flames.

Carpenter told a reporter that it is believed his son, Dennis had been playing with matches. "My son was in the bedroom with the door closed," Carpenter said. "The smoke was thick. I hurried into the room and got my son and took him outside. Then I went back and tried to put out the fire."

When firemen arrived, Carpenter was sitting in a chair on the porch, suffering smoke poisoning. He was administered first aid until the arrival of a physician. The rescue of the child by his father apparently was timely, as the boy wasn't affected by the dense smoke which filled the house.

$16,200 for Gunman

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo's third bank robbery of the year has netted a gunman $16,200 in cash.

Police said a man handed Mrs. Carol Eberle, 26, a note saying, "Just hand me the money and keep quiet." She reported he had a pistol pointed at her.

Mrs. Eberle said she filled a brown paper bag the gunman handed her with bills in small denominations. He "very calmly" walked toward the bank entrance, looked back, and walked out, she said.

Customers and employes of the bank were not aware of the holdup until Mrs. Eberle informed another teller as the man fled the bank.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR

Investment Advisor & Analyst

Inheritance Might Grow Faster by Diversifying

Q — Three years ago I inherited 200 shares of U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty, then trading in the mid-60s. Now it's 20 points lower — what happened? Dividends are increased regularly and I'd like to hold for my old age unless you think I should sell some.—J.B.

A — Your company is a leader in casualty and surety underwriting, but insurance stocks have generally lost favor with investors who nowadays seem to want faster action. Historically, the industry goes through extended cycles of rising and falling price loss of favor among investors.

As this evidently is your only stock holding, I'd like to suggest that you sell 100 shares and divide the proceeds between two growth stocks which I have recently mentioned: Deseret Pharmaceutical (ASE) and Jewel Companies, a diversified retailer of food, drugs and general merchandise. This move should step up long-term capital gains in planning for your retirement. Jewel pays a cash dividend and Deseret follows a generous stock dividend policy.

Q — Could you please explain to me how much one would have to invest each month to realize a certain percentage on the money?—C.L.

A — Gladly. Regardless of how much capital you invest or on what basis—lump sum or Monthly Investment Plan—the highest percentage return you could hope to receive from dividends, consistent with safety, would average 5-5½ per cent on common stocks and possibly 6-6½ per cent on bonds. An investment of $1,000 could yield $50 to $65 a year, or $4.50 to $5.41 a month. Should you want to set up a monthly income of $300—or $3,600 annually—you would need to invest $72,000 at 5 per cent. Dividend yields on stable companies tend to parallel bank interest rates although sometimes they may be somewhat higher. Conversely, they are lower in strong growth situations where earnings are plowed back into research and corporate expansion.

Houses Passes Joe's Bill on Aid to Widows

A bill offered by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, to provide educational assistance for widows of U.S. Veterans, has passed the House and is slated to be taken up by the Senate later this session.

The measure, which Congressman Resnick originally introduced in 1966, and which he labelled, An Educational GI Bill for Vietnam Widows, extends the provision of the War Orphan's Educational Program to widows of persons who died of a service-connected disability.

Wives of persons who are totally disabled as the result of a service-connected injury or disease are also covered in the bill. Such widows and wives would be eligible for educational assistance for 36 months at $130 a month.

Resnick, a New York Democrat, is a member of the Veterans Affairs Committee.

He indicated that he originally conceived the idea for the bill after one of his constituents, a widow whose husband had been killed in Vietnam, told him that it would be easier for her to make a living and raise her five children if she could go to college and train for a career.

"I think everyone will agree that there are few things more important today than education. In order to make a decent living in our highly complex world, either a college or other specialized educations is virtually a minimum requirement," Congressman Resnick said.

"We try in every possible way to provide for widows of the men who served to defend our country in the far corners of the world, but this is one area that has been overlooked. I am proud and pleased that steps are finally being taken to correct this."

New Paltz Head Is in Accord With Students

The president of the State University College at New Paltz declared today that he believes in students partaking in decision-making at the administrative level; a congressional candidate disagreed with that view, and the students themselves are voting for representatives to a faculty-student committee.

Dr. John H. Jacobson, acting president of the college, said that he would work with the yet-to-be-formed faculty-student commission and that he is in agreement with the idea that students "are obviously in a position to judge how capable a teacher is in his classroom presentation of material."

G. Gordon Liddy, continuing in his fight to win the Republican nomination for Congress, said that student participation in the hiring, retaining, and firing of professors "sets a dangerous precedent."

"Giving a voice to students over whom shall be hired and fired and reappointed, virtually places a sword over every teacher's head at the college. The resolution gives students too much authority in matters for which they are not yet qualified," Liddy declared.

Students today are voting to send a five man slate to join a five-man faculty slate in the formation of the newly agreed upon committee.

Meanwhile, Professor Roger Knapp continues to remain locked in self-imposed exile in a conference room within the college's administration building. Reportedly, he has not eaten since Monday afternoon.

Woman Killed By Earthquake In New Zealand

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI)—An earthquake so strong it shifted bridges and knocked a train from its tracks rumbled down the west coast of New Zealand today.

At least one person was known dead—a woman killed when a landslide swept over her home—and 15 persons were injured, officials said.

The shocks were felt as far away as Auckland where Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth of Britain, spent the night during a tour of New Zealand. Scientists put the quake's intensity at seven on the open-end Richter scale.

Worst hit was the village of Inangahua where officials said 70 per cent of the houses were destroyed and the rest were so badly damaged they were useless. The village and its surrounding area had a population of more than 1,200 persons.

In Greymouth, largest city of the west coast, several buildings were evacuated when wide cracks appeared in their walls.

Officials said the quake cut road and railroad links along a 130-mile strip of the coast. Roads were closed by large cracks, bridges were knocked askew and a train was derailed.

Two Upstaters Added to the Vietnam Toll

Two more servicemen from upstate New York have been killed in combat in South Vietnam.

Army Pfc. Dale A. Hill, 20, of Fort Ann, northeast of Glens Falls, died May 21. Army officials told Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hill, the vehicle in which their son was riding hit an enemy mine near Saigon.

Hill was drafted nine months ago and had been in Vietnam since March.

The Defense Department reported Thursday the death of Army Cpl. Raymond L. Cook of Gouverneur, northeast of Watertown. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Cook.

Gestapo Police, NAACP Charge In Newburgh

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Recent Newburgh racial disturbances brought out political charges today from an NAACP official who accused officials in this small, upstate community of creating "a gestapo police machine."

The city's mayor, in turn, countered with statements that civil rights groups are being used as "dupes" for political gain.

Samuel A. T. Hodge, Jr., of the Newburgh NAACP, said that a civil disturbance early this month was "a direct result of mishandling of a childish affair by a bunch of amateurs in city hall."

Hodge accused the Republican city administration of hiding "themselves in city hall and creating a gestapo police machine to fight the phantom crime in the streets."

Mayor George S. McKneally countered by calling Hodge's remarks "a continuing political attack" and added that local civil rights groups were being "used as dupes by politicians."

The civil disturbance which prompted these remarks resulted from dispursing of a crowd gathered for an unauthorized drag race on a city street on May 4.

Compromise Tax Package Worked Out by Negotiators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of President Johnson's top economic advisers now appear willing to accept $6 billion in spending cuts as the price for higher taxes if that's the best bargain they can strike.

Of the top four, only Budget Bureau Director Charles S. Zwick is still firmly committed to no more than $4 billion in spending cuts—a position taken by the President.

The first test vote on the compromise package worked out by Senate-House negotiators will come next week.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., plans to offer a resolution Wednesday instructing House negotiators to resume meeting with their Senate colleagues and to insist on spending cuts of $4 billion.

The negotiators have already worked up a formula calling for $6 billion in cuts—which Johnson contends is too much—and the 10 per cent income tax surcharge requested by the President.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee said Thursday he expects the House to pass the compromise as it now stands "when all the fanfare is over." He thinks Burke's motion will fail.

Whatever the outcome, some key voices in the administration are now ready to accept Mills' plan just to get the surcharge.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler has already endorsed the compromise package.

And only this week, James S. Duesenberry, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said although $6 billion in spending cuts goes too far the over-all package would benefit the nation.

The other two members of the council reportedly feel much the same way.

Members of the Federal Reserve Board, the other major economic force in government, have persistently urged higher taxes and spending cuts.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Anthony Tecce, who died seven years ago today, May 24, 1961.

What would we give to see your smile,
And sit with you and talk awhile;
Day and night we think of you,
The things you used to say and do.
The blow was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with you so kind and dear.
We wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.

County Road Work Low Bid Received

J. Burch McMorran, State Commissioner of Transportation, announced receipt of a low bid of $1,224,818 from Ritangela Construction Corp., Spring Valley, for improvements to 10.35 miles of combined Routes 44 and 55 in the Towns of Gardiner, Rochester and Wawarsing, Ulster County. Three bids were received.

The roadway will be resurfaced with asphault from Route 299 westerly to Route 209. Shoulders will be stabilized, drainage facilities improved, and new box-beam guide railing installed. The bridges over Rondout Creek, Stony Kill and Coxing Kill will be rehabilitated.

This project was made possible as a result of appropriations recommended by Governor Rockefeller and approved by the Legislature.

Work is expected to begin shortly after a contract is officially executed. The contract will be awarded, following a routine check by State engineers of all bids received, to the contractor who is found to have submitted the lowest valid bid. There usually is a lapse of about one month between receipt of bids and contract award.

Scheduled for completion by Nov. 19, 1969, all work will be under the supervision of M. Nicholas Sinacori, District Engineer in charge of the Department's District Office at Poughkeepsie.

Alice Sheds Light On Illicit Affairs

NEW YORK (UPI)—A jammed courtroom Thursday heard murder defendant Alice Crimmins admit to a number of illicit love affairs but deny she told a lover she had killed her daughter.

The redhaired former cocktail waitress was frequently in tears during her lengthy questioning by Assistant Dist. Atty. Anthony Lombardino, who brought up the names of 11 men in his examination of her love life. Mrs. Crimmins is charged with strangling her 4-year-old daughter, Alice Marie.

The lover, Joseph Rorech, testified earlier that during a motel tryst Mrs. Crimmins had said to him, "Joseph, please forgive me. I killed her."

Questioned by Lombardino about the alleged statement, Mrs. Crimmins, lips trembling and tears in her eyes, replied: "Never, never."

This was the same reply she gave earlier under questioning by her attorney, Milton Baron.

At that time Mrs. Crimmins also disputed Rorech's testimony regarding his deep affection for her and indicated the Long Island contractor may have been jealous because she was dating other men. She said Rorech, a married father of seven, had asked her to marry him but she refused.

She answered "Yes" when asked if Rorech, a one time suspect in the case, had ever suggsted she have his child.

Mrs. Crimmins was excused from the witness stand after five and a half hours of direct and cross-examination.

Alice Marie's body was found in a vacant lot near Mrs. Crimmins' Kew Gardens, Queens, home on July 14, 1965, and one week later the body of Mrs. Crimmins' other child, Edmund Jr., 5, was found in Flushing Meadow Park. His body was so decomposed that cause of death was never ascertained and Mrs. Crimmins was charged only with her daughter's death.

The children's father, Edmund, had been separated from his wife at the time of the alleged slaying but the couple has since reconciled and he has taken the witness stand in her behalf.

Press Search To Seek Cause Of Copter Crash

PARAMOUNT, Calif. (AP) — Federal officials pressed a search today in a pasture, in the Los Angeles County morgue and elsewhere for the cause of the worst helicopter crash in U.S. history.

All 23 prsons aboard the single-rotor commuter Sikorsky S61 helicopter returning to Los Angeles International Airport from Disneyland were killed in the crash Wednesday evening. They included nine Ohioans on vacation and two prominent Californians.

Los Angeles Airways resumed its charter operations in the metropolitan area after a post crash suspension of flights.

The bodies of the 20 passengers and three crewmen were found in or near the charred wreckage in a pasture near a busy intersection of Paramount, halfway on the 32-mile hop from Disneyland to the airport.

The dead included Mayor John R. Trainor, 46, of Red Bluff, Calif.; Dr. Arden K. Ruddell, 43, professor of education at the University of California at Berkeley, and Morris Kromfeld, a New York investment banker from West Englewood, N.J.

Nine relatives of Mrs. Jack Garner of Columbus, Ohio, also were aboard. They were nearing the end of a vacation.

A rotor blade broke away from the big craft before it fell. The possibility that this caused the crash was being studied.

Morningside: Tense, Quiet

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia University was tense but quiet today after resuming evening classes without incident.

The evening session at the 214-year-old Ivy League institution had been cancelled on Wednesday in the wake of disturbances in which about 170 persons were arrested and at least 68 persons were injured.

About 1,600 police took part in the mass arrests on campus early Wednesday, but only a handful, in their Low Library command post and at the two main campus gates, were visible early today.

Wednesday's police action marks the third time since the student protest began on April 23 that patrolmen and detectives were called in by the school administration to drive demonstrators from university property.

Gallup Poll: Students Prefer Eugene, Rocky

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — College students prefer Sen. Eugene McCarthy over his two major rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination, according to the Gallup Poll.

In a recently completed survey, the poll found that 46 per cent of those students polled preferred the Minnesota senator. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York was second with 33 per cent, Vice President Hubert Humphrey had 15 per cent, and 6 per cent were undecided.

On the Republican side, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York drew 56 per cent, compared to 37 per cent for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, with 7 per cent undecided.

The poll attributes McCarthy's lead among the Democrats to his standing among students who consider themselves Republicans or independents. Among Democrats alone, the poll reported, Humphrey was more popular.

Heart Patient Satisfactory

HOUSTON (UPI) — The world's most recent heart transplant patient, 54-year-old Louis Fierro of Elmont, N.Y. was reported in satisfactory condition today by spokesmen at St. Luke's Hospital.

Nursing supervisor Peggy McCall said "Both of our transplant patients are having a real good night."

Fierro received the heart of a 17-year-old youth who died of a brain hemorrhage in a two-hour operation that began late Tuesday and ended early Wednesday.

St. Luke's other transplant patient, 47-year-old Everett C. Thomas of Phoenix, Ariz., entered his 21st day of life with the new organ today.

Two other recovering transplant patients were reported in good condition also. They were Frederick West, 45, at the National Heart Hospital in London and the Rev. Jean-Marie Boulogne, 45, at Paris' Broussais Hospital.

Bonnie's Stone Taken, Found Following Tip

DALLAS (UPI)—A vandal commemorated the May 23, 1934, death of gangstress Bonnie Parker by stealing her tombstone from a Dallas cemetery Thursday. Police recovered the monument later in the day.

The 80-pound tombstone was found at a Dallas intersection by police acting on an anonymous phone tip.

Officials also said the tombstone of Clyde Barrow, Miss Parker's partner in crime, was taken from an Oak Cliff graveyard. Police were still searching for it.

Barrow and Miss Parker, gangsters who terrorized the nation's midsection in the 1930's, were brought back to the public eye last year in the film "Bonnie and Clyde."

Burned in Kitchen

While working in the kitchen of a residence at 33 Stephan Street shortly after 11 a. m. today, Frederick A. Koenig, 62, of Colonial Garden Apartments in Poughkeepsie, suffered multiple burns of the legs and hands. Koenig was rushed to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance Service. Firemen responded to an alarm. Police were notified. No further details were available.

$13,839 Heist

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A man made good his escape Thursday after forcing a teller in a branch bank in suburban Brighton to stuff $13,839 into a paper bag.

Police said the man walked up to a teller, Ellen McGee, 19, thrust a bag into her cage and handed her a note at the East Avenue branch of the Central Trust Co.

The note read: "Put the money in the bag."

Miss McGee said he kept a hand in his raincoat pocket as if he was holding a weapon as she filled the bag with bills of small denominations.

Hughes Adds To Holdings In Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Calif. (UPI)—Howard Hughes has added 23 acres to his holdings on the Las Vegas strip at a cost of $2 million.

The land is located between the Frontier Hotel and the Castaways Hotel, both owned by Hughes. The publicity-shy billionaire currently owns six gambling resorts on the strip and has $150 million in holdings in Nevada.

Dist. Judge Alvin Wartman approved the sale Thursday when no other bids on the property were submitted. Court permission was necessary because the land was part of an estate left by Roscoe Coffman, a wealthy inventor who died last March at the age of 76.

Bomb Is Exploded At U.S. Consulate

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—A bomb exploded early today on the steps of the U.S. consulate in Quebec City.

Several windows of the building were broken and the heavy wooden doors leading into the consulate were split by the impact of the simple dynamite bomb.

The consulate had been the scene of several minor student demonstrations in recent weeks. A few days ago the slogan "N.L.F. Victory"—a reference to the Viet Cong—was smeared across the front of the building with paint.

There were no injuries in the explosion today.

Consul Francis Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham were the only people in the building at the time.

Compromise Tax Package Worked Out by Negotiators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of President Johnson's top economic advisers now appear willing to accept $6 billion in spending cuts as the price for higher taxes if that's the best bargain they can strike.

Of the top four, only Budget Bureau Director Charles S. Zwick is still firmly committed to no more than $4 billion in spending cuts—a position taken by the President.

The first test vote on the compromise package worked out by Senate-House negotiators will come next week.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., plans to offer a resolution Wednesday instructing House negotiators to resume meeting with their Senate colleagues and to insist on spending cuts of $4 billion.

The negotiators have already worked up a formula calling for $6 billion in cuts—which Johnson contends is too much—and the 10 per cent income tax surcharge requested by the President.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee said Thursday he expects the House to pass the compromise as it now stands "when all the fanfare is over." He thinks Burke's motion will fail.

Whatever the outcome, some key voices in the administration are now ready to accept Mills' plan just to get the surcharge.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler has already endorsed the compromise package.

And only this week, James S. Duesenberry, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said although $6 billion in spending cuts goes too far the over-all package would benefit the nation.

The other two members of the council reportedly feel much the same way.

Members of the Federal Reserve Board, the other major economic force in government, have persistently urged higher taxes and spending cuts.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Anthony Tecce, who died seven years ago today, May 24, 1961.
What would we give to see your smile,
And sit with you and talk awhile;
Day and night we think of you,
The things you used to say and do.
The blow was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with you so kind and dear.
We wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.

County Road Work Low Bid Received

J. Burch McMorran, State Commissioner of Transportation, announced receipt of a low bid of $1,224,818 from Ritangela Construction Corp., Spring Valley, for improvements to 10.35 miles of combined Routes 44 and 55 in the Towns of Gardiner, Rochester and Wawarsing, Ulster County. Three bids were received.

The roadway will be resurfaced with asphault from Route 299 westerly to Route 209. Shoulders will be stabilized, drainage facilities improved, and new box-beam guide railing installed. The bridges over Rondout Creek, Stony Kill and Coxing Kill will be rehabilitated.

This project was made possible as a result of appropriations recommended by Governor Rockefeller and approved by the Legislature.

Work is expected to begin shortly after a contract is officially executed. The contract will be awarded, following a routine check by State engineers of all bids received, to the contractor who is found to have submitted the lowest valid bid. There usually is a lapse of about one month between receipt of bids and contract award.

Scheduled for completion by Nov. 19, 1969, all work will be under the supervision of M. Nicholas Sinacori, District Engineer in charge of the Department's District Office at Poughkeepsie.

Alice Sheds Light On Illicit Affairs

Did You Know

One of the most fascinating lost treasure stories ever told has to do with glass—malleable glass that would bend, that could be hammered like metal, and dropped without breaking. It was developed in the days of the Caesars.

The inventor demonstrated the remarkable qualities of the glass to Caesar by throwing it on the floor of the audience chamber and striking it with a hammer. Although this was one of the greatest discoveries of the ages, Caesar ordered the man killed on the spot. He feared the marvelous glass would be worth more than gold and silver, and his own fortune was tied up in those precious metals. Thus a secret was lost that kept the world waiting 2000 years to rediscover.

HYACINTHS in BILL'S BACK YARD

by Bill Meachem

In mid-Spring, when the air is at its softest and clearest, and all the greens are new, hyacinths take the spotlight in the garden.

Hyacinths have long been famous for their symmetrical shapes and pleasing aroma. Now, thanks to the constant efforts of hybridizers and growers in Holland, hyacinth colors are today varied and vibrant. The new colors—red, deep purple, yellow, orange and pure white—added to the pastel pinks and blue, present countless opportunities to use this flower in the garden.

Too many gardeners have the old-fashioned notion the hyacinths must be planted in formal beds in a huge garden. Not so. Think of tiny Holland and its wonderful flowers. The Dutch tuck hyacinths into narrow planting strips between pavement and canal. Almost every small front-door garden bursts with bloom in the Spring.

A group of five hyacinths in a small garden, strategically placed, will be a special attraction when in flower.

Discover what nooks and crannies are available and try several clumps of hyacinths. Each group should consist of one variety because no two varieties flower at the exact time and a mixture of two or more might prove disappointing.

Small groups of hyacinths are always effective in front of a shrub planting. The foundation planting around the house is also ideal for a little "dressing up" with these gems from Holland.

Of course, hyacinths always look decorative bordering the front walk, especially near the door. Then, in Spring, the fragrance can come right into the living room, along with your guests.

Even the smallest of gardens can be an eye-catching spectacle next Spring when hyacinths are in the spotlight.

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS: This shade lover has one fault—it's highly susceptible to mildew, the white fungous condition you see on the stems and leaves. You can keep the disease down by preventing water from splashing on the foliage. Also provide ample air drainage. Dusting or spraying the plants with Mildex (also listed as Karathane) keeps the disease out. It's a lot easier to prevent mildew than it is to cure it once the disease has set in.

Did you know you can raise tuberous begonias from seed? Sow seed on a porous red brick which has a thin layer (about 1/3") of rich, humusy soil, or peatmoss. Put the brick in a tin pan (such as tin bread baking pan) and keep about two inches of water in the bottom of the pan. The brick automatically waters the soil by capillarity, avoiding splashing. Do not cover seed. Simply firm it into the planting medium with your fingers. A pane of glass can be put over the pan to help keep the soil moist.

FREE: Want to know more about bulbous plants? Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, HOW TO RAISE TUBEROUS BEGONIAS, CALADIUMS AND CANNAS. My guide is packed full of good tips on growing these handsome plants.

WEEDS IN FLOWER BEDS: Many ask me if there is a good weedkiller which can be used in an iris bed full of quack grass. I wish there was such a thing. Your best bet in the iris bed is to dig up the plants, shake the weeds out and burn them. Then divide your iris and reset them far enough part so you can weed them by hand. Your hoe is your best weed-killer. In the vegetable garden you can use a light hoe or a hand cultivator, or one that's motorized. Rotary tillers make a good weapon for controlling weeds, but do not cultivate too deeply as it can hurt the roots.

Another good weedkiller is a plastic much. Black plastic has been popular because it does not allow weeds to sprout beneath and it traps the moisture inside. Organic mulches, such as sawdust, straw, ground corncobs, cocoabean shells, or cotton seed hulls, provide all the benefits of weed control. There are some chemicals (herbicides) useful for the home fruit and vegetable garden, and two you might try are dacthal and simazine. Follow the directions.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC

A reader writes: "Every summer our clum birch tree gets brown leaves which shed. We can't spray because the tree is too tall. What can be done?"

Answer: Try using one of the newer systemic pesticides. All you do is scatter some of the granules under the tree and water it in. The plant absorbs the chemical into the sap stream. When the leafminer eats some of the sap or tissue, it is killed. There's no danger of poisoning birds or pets with the new systemic pesticides.

Accepts Scholarship

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — A 25-year-old Penobscot Indian woman has become the first Eastern Indian accepted in a New Mexico special scholarship program in law for American Indians.

Maine's Department of Indian Affairs announced Monday that Donna Byers of Indian Island, Old Town, will attend a pre-law seminar starting June 17 at the University of New Mexico.

After the summer program, Miss Byers hopes to enroll in the University of Maine law school in Portland and specialize in Maine Indian law. She is a 1965 graduate of the Unversity of Maine.

Some Consolation

MEMPHIS (AP) — William M. McElyea, who was in the Air Corps at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese struck Dec. 7, 1941, wrote the Pentagon recently to see whether he had ever received his recommended promotion to sergeant.

Eventually he got a package of four medals he had been awarded but had never received before his discharge in 1943.

Did You Know

One of the most fascinating lost treasure stories ever told has to do with glass—malleable glass that would bend, that could be hammered like metal, and dropped without breaking. It was developed in the days of the Caesars.

The inventor demonstrated the remarkable qualities of the glass to Caesar by throwing it on the floor of the audience chamber and striking it with a hammer. Although this was one of the greatest discoveries of the ages, Caesar ordered the man killed on the spot. He feared the marvelous glass would be worth more than gold and silver, and his own fortune was tied up in those precious metals. Thus a secret was lost that kept the world waiting 2000 years to rediscover.

Twins Are Elected

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Donald and Wallace Brithinee, 19-year-old twins at the University of California at Riverside, have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, the national academic honor society. They'll graduate in June after three years. In 1965 they were co-valedictorians at nearby Fontana High School.

HYACINTHS in BILL'S BACK YARD

by Bill Meachem

In mid-Spring, when the air is at its softest and clearest, and all the greens are new, hyacinths take the spotlight in the garden.

Hyacinths have long been famous for their symmetrical shapes and pleasing aroma. Now, thanks to the constant efforts of hybridizers and growers in Holland, hyacinth colors are today varied and vibrant. The new colors—red, deep purple, yellow, orange and pure white—added to the pastel pinks and blue, present countless opportunities to use this flower in the garden.

Too many gardeners have the old-fashioned notion the hyacinths must be planted in formal beds in a huge garden. Not so. Think of tiny Holland and its wonderful flowers. The Dutch tuck hyacinths into narrow planting strips between pavement and canal. Almost every small front-door garden bursts with bloom in the Spring.

A group of five hyacinths in a small garden, strategically placed, will be a special attraction when in flower.

Discover what nooks and crannies are available and try several clumps of hyacinths. Each group should consist of one variety because no two varieties flower at the exact time and a mixture of two or more might prove disappointing.

Small groups of hyacinths are always effective in front of a shrub planting. The foundation planting around the house is also ideal for a little "dressing up" with these gems from Holland.

Of course, hyacinths always look decorative bordering the front walk, especially near the door. Then, in Spring, the fragrance can come right into the living room, along with your guests.

Even the smallest of gardens can be an eye-catching spectacle next Spring when hyacinths are in the spotlight.

INSTALLATION BANQUET — Among those attending the first annual installation dinner given by the Legal Secretaries were (L-R) Chris Gallop, president; the Hon. Lawrence H. Cooke, Supreme Court Justice, Monticello; Betty Maxon, program chairman; and Miss Ethel Gage of Middletown, former New York State president and installing officer. (Powell photo).

Legal Secretaries Hold First Annual Installations

The first annual installation ceremony held by the Ulster County Chapter of the National Association of Legal Secretaries took place on Wednesday, May 15.

Member secretaries, many of the local area attorneys, families and friends gathered in the Lounge Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel to attend the banquet and program. Among those present were the Honorable Raymond J. Mino, County Court Judge of Ulster County; Seymour Werbalowsky, President of the Ulster County Bar Association; and John L. Larkin, local attorney, who served as toastmaster.

Miss Ethel Gage of Middletown, New York, past president of the New York State Association of Legal Secretaries and former President of the Orange County Legal Secretaries Association, presided at the installation of officers for the coming year; namely, Mrs. Christine Galop, president; Mrs. Vera Elliott, vice president; Miss Janet Kruppa, recording secretary; Miss LaVerne Banach, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Beatrice Zebree, treasurer; and Mrs. Michael Maxson, NALS representative.

The Honorable Lawrence H. Cooke, Supreme Court Justice, from Monticello, New York, was presented as the guest speaker and his talk proved to be the highlight of the evening. He expressed his delight and interest in the formation of this local chapter, stressing the importance of a good secretary to an attorney. He then spoke about the prevailing conditions in our world today, indicating that the moral and religious code of ethics is our backbone of society, rather than material possessions and the quest for social status.

USE DAIRY FOODS DAILY

A recent U.S. Department of Agriculture survey showed that some American families are eating "poor" diets. Calcium is one of the nutrients that is lacking most often. One of the easiest ways to help meet the body's need for calcium is to drink milk each day, says Louise M. Kakargo, Extension Home Econonist. In addition, other dairy products, like cheese, yoghurt, and ice cream, boost the calcium content of meals. Shoppers can choose from a wide variety of milks and dairy products at the markets, especially now during the time of peak milk production.

More milk is produced during May and June than any other month of the year. So far in 1968, milk production has been down about 3 per cent from a year ago, but now during the peak season more milk will be produced than we can consume immediately, and the surplus production will be manufactured into other dairy products. Cheese and ice cream manfacture is expected to gain this year.

Cheese concentrates most of the food materials found in milk, including protein and calcium. The protein in cheese is the same high quality as the protein in meat, fish, and eges. Compared to many protein-rich foods, cheese is economical.

Cheeses vary in their nutritive value, depending on the variety, how they were made, and the moisture and butterfat content.

One and one-third ounces of Cheddar cheese have about the same amount of protein and calcium as a cup of milk. Cottage and Ricotta cheeses are also excellent sources of protein and are a help to weight watchers because they are lower in calories than most other cheeses; they contain more moisture and less milk fat. A serving of cream cheese, on the other hand, has twice as many calories as a serving of cottage cheese because of its high fat content. Cream cheese is low in protein and calcium. Neufchatel cheese is similar in flavor to cream cheese but has fewer calories than cream cheese because it is made from whole milk, whereas cream cheese is made from cream or a mixture of milk and cream.

Cheddar or American cheese is a firm, ripened cheese, with flavor ranging from mild to uses. Cheddar colors vary, but do not indicate the flavor.

Cheddars are often sold under names that indicate the form in which they were molded, as daisy or longhorn, or the area of origin, as Wisconsin or New York Aged.

Cheddar cheese may be aged or cured from 60 days to a year, depending on sharpness of flavor desired. It may be labeled mild, medium, sharp, and extra sharp. These terms denote the flavor intensity. Mild cheese is aged 2 to 3 months and has a slightly developed flavor. Mellow-aged or medium cheese is aged 4 to 7 months and has a well developed flavor. Sharp cheese is aged 8 to 12 months and has fully developed flavor.

The longer the aging period, the highter the price per pound. Generally, sharp Cheddar cheese is about 10 per cent more expensive than mild Cheddar. At one metropolitan supermarket recently, a pound of mild Cheddar cost 75 cents, whie a pound of extra sharp Cheddar cost 89 cents.

Rappaport; Mrs. Harry Friedman, who will serve as installing officer; and Mrs. H. Z. Rappaport, chaplain for the group. The Sisterhood will hold formal installation of officers on Sunday, May 26 at 6 p. m. in the Congregation at 24 West Union Street. Sisterhood members and their husbands are invited. MEXICAN FIESTA SALAD

South of the Border

Add a touch of old Mexico to your next buffet dinner and serve this molded avocado salad that will bring back memories of that favorite dish, guacamole. Avocados have a smooth, rich, bland flavor that's not sweet or tart, but sometimes described as nut-like. Here, mashed avocados are combined with dairy sour cream, onion and a hint of chili powder. For a pleasant texture, color and flavor contrast to the creamy smooth, pastel salad, add a can of crisp golden whole kernel corn with red and green sweet peppers. Mexican foods are a galaxy of color and the corn adds a gay fiesta touch.

To round out your meal, serve crisp tortilla chips and tasty barbequed ribs. This salad is best when prepared in the morning to serve later in the day. It's another time-saving, ingenious recipe to add to your collection.

Fiesta Salad

- 3 large ripe avocados
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¾ teaspoon chili powder
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 1 cup water
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 (12-ounce) can golden whole kernel corn with red and green sweet peppers, drained

Peel avocados; remove seed. Mash avocados. Add salt, chili powder, lemon juice and onion.

Soften gelatine in water. Dissolve over hot water. Add sour cream, corn and avocado mixture; blend well. Pour into a 1¼-quart ring mold. Chill until firm, 3 to 4 hours. Unmold onto lettuce-lined plates. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Firm, White Halibut Steeped in Beer

From the clear blue waters of the North Pacific comes a fish which is the source of truly delicious dinner steaks. The prized halibut has a unique flavor, firm white flesh and is of uniformly high quality.

Right now it has the distinction of being on the Plentiful Foods list which means it's a main dish to watch for and use often. Like all fish, halibut is high in protein, low in fat and cooks in a few minutes. It is, in fact one of nature's original convenience foods.

In cooking fish, there are two things to watch. Never, never overcook. And keep the delicate flesh moist and succulent with just a few chosen seasonings. One of the classic liquids for cooking fish is beer. The natural flavors of beer daintily permeate the fish without overpowering the characteristic seafood taste. Steaming, poaching or simmering halibut in beer will guard against drying out, but timing must be observed.

PLENTIFUL PACIFIC HALIBUT STEAKS cook to perfection in 15 minutes in a shallow beer bath. Serve with a green vegetable and a sparkling glass of cold beer to bring the pride of the North Pacific to your table.

Halibut in Beer

- 2 (12-oz.) packages frozen halibut steaks
- Salt
- Paprika
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ cup beer
- 2 tablespoons chopped chives
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons water

Sprinkle frozen halibut steaks on both sides with salt and paprika. Melt butter or margarine in skillet; stir in lemon juice, beer and chives. Add fish. Cover pan and simmer gently for 10 to 15 minutes, or until fish flakes easily. Remove fish and keep warm. Mix cornstarch with water and stir into pan drippings. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Serve over fish Yield: 4 servings.

Doing the Right Thing

"HOSTESS HELPER" AN ALTERNATIVE TO "SITTING"

Girls get tired of baby-sitting, and today I would like to suggest an alternative part-time job for summer.

Several weeks ago a lady from my hometown called me on behalf of the local Youth Employment Service, an offshoot of the Youth Council, which is a group of adults and young people working together for good adult-teenage relationships. The Employment Service, is casting about for jobs available to high school girls, came up with the idea of "Hostess Helpers." Girls, through a central placement agent, will work by the hour, helping hostesses with parties of every kind. The lady asked me if I would give the girls some hints about correct serving, dress, etc. I think it is a wonderful idea because not only will the girls be performing a real service, they will be learning something that will be valuable to them for the rest of their lives. Should any of you be interested in starting a similar program, the following suggestions will be helpful, and for further advice please feel free to write me.

Arriving Early. The girls should plan to arrive early enough so that the hostess will have time to show them where all utensils and necessities are. The employer should also give instructions as to how she wishes dinner served, what she expects of her "helper," and special instructions, such as what may not go in the dishwasher.

Dress. Clean, simple dresses are most appropriate. They should not be unduly tight, low-cut, or short-skirted. The girls should wear aprons of some sort. Our particular group is planning to have a uniform apron—a sign that they have been hired through the Youth Employment Service. Otherwise the girls should take an apron of their own, or ask the hostess in advance if she will supply one.

Hair. Especially if it is long, should be tied back or put up. Nothing is less attractive that hair falling into a dish as the server leans over to pass it.

Equally disgusting are dirty hands or nails. No matter how well-groomed she may be otherwise, the girl must be immaculately clean.

Pay. I feel that the hourly wage should vary according to the work done. If a girl is hired only to hand things to the hostess and to wash up without appearing out of the kitchen, she should be paid less than the one who passes hors d'oeuvres, serves dinner, and cleans up as well. The first girl might receive a wage similar to that of a sitter—75 cents to one dollar an hour. Perhaps the second girl, who needs more experience and skill, should get a dollar and a half to two dollars an hour. The price must be in keeping with the community and the wages paid for other jobs.

Cocktail Parties

While "hostess helpers" are not expected to actually do the cooking, they should know how to prepare and present hors d'oeuvres. In most cases they should be expected to pass them. The girls should learn to put paper doilies under "dry" hors d'oeuvres or bowls of dip. The doilie is not used under anything "runny," as it would soon become soggy. A sprig of parsley or a dash of paprika changes a drab looking dish to a pretty one.

Hors d'oeuvres may be passed from any direction, and the passer must be firm about getting through and serving a crowd. She must learn to say firmly, "Excuse me" "Will you have some cheese?" in order to get people's attention. She should also see that empty platters in the living room are refilled or removed.

Dinner Parties

If there are more than six or eight guests at a sit-down dinner, two girls should be hired. One girl, however, can handle a much larger buffet dinner. She need do no serving, but merely remove empty dishes, see that platters are refilled, and clean up.

Sit-down dinners may be served in two ways. The first, least formal procedure, is for the girl to put a pile of warm plates, and platters and serving dishes, in front of the host. He fills the dishes, hands them to her, and she takes them to the diners starting with the woman on the host's right. She serves each guest in order, continuing counter-clockwise around the table. The host serves his own plate last. The dishes are put on the table from the diner's left, and removed from his right.

The second manner of serving a sit-down dinner is more formal. The girl brings in the warm plates and sets one before each diner. Then she brings in the main dish and passes it, starting again with the person on the host's right, and serving from the left side. Then she passes the other dishes in the same way.

When everyone is finished, she clears the table of all serving dishes, salts and peppers and condiments. She may never stack dishes but must remove them two at a time.

Dessert may be put on the plates in the kitchen and the "helper" brings in two at a time. Or the host or hostess may serve it at the table in the same manner described above.

One of the most important things the "hostess helper" should do is to clear up the living room after the cocktail hour.

The Hostess' Responsibilities

The price and hours must be agreed upon in advance.

The "hostess helper" is promptly paid at the end of the evening.

She is not expected to care of children or do any duties unconnected with the party.

The host or hostess must arrange for her transportation home.

A Spinster at 24!

By MARSHA DUBROW

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tis the season for weddings, a tough time for an "old maid" of 24 who isn't even engaged.

"Old maid" isn't worrying about it, though; but my parents? Well, listen to the following conversation which took place at long distance rates: It was my mother on the line. "Don't you think," she said, "it's time you thought of settling down?"

"Mother," I said, "did you phone me long distance at 1 a.m. just to ask THAT?"

"Well, dear?"

"No, Mom, I wasn't thinking of anything—I was asleep. Tell me, how are you and Dad?"

"We're fine, but we're concerned about you. You're not getting any younger, you know."

"Did you expect me to?"

"Now, darling, we just don't want you to be an old maid."

"I just celebrated my 24th birthday. I'm not withered yet. Maybe I am a bit shriveled, but that's due to New York's smog, not old age."

"But I don't want to think of you as my daughter, the old maid. At this rate, you surely will be. No, you ARE right now."

"Mother, according to hometown standards, your daughter has been an old maid for the last half decade."

"Oh . . . oh, dear."

"But since I don't live there, those rules don't apply to me. Why, here in Manhattan I'd be considered a child bride if I married soon."

"Exaggeration always was one of your faults. Maybe if you tempered your faults . . ."

"All right, I'd have been a teen-aged bride."

"But what can I tell my friends when they ask why you aren't married?"

"Tell them I'm so old, who'd have me! And you can tell them for me . . ."

"Well, dear, I just thought I'd call to see how you're doing. You are all right, otherwise?"

"I'm fine, just fine. Hope you and Dad are, too."

"Oh, we're just fine, too . . . Darling, you will think about it, won't you?"

"Think about what?"

"Settling down. I feel I must keep reminding you that there is an institution called marriage."

"I'll remember."

"You will at least keep the thought in mind?"

"Certainly. I do think of it every so often. Matter of fact, I have been seeing a lot of someone."

"That's wonderful! Tell me about him."

"I really don't know too much about him but I'm terribly attracted to him. He's older, mid 40's . . .

"Oh?"

"I don't think he's married."

"You don't think he's married?"

"Darling, what I said about thinking about . . ."

"Yes, mother, I told you I'd think about it."

"Don't think so hard. If you ever had a fault, I always said, it was thinking too much."

"Yes, Mother."

"Your father and I were just saying why don't we fly up and visit you. I think next weekend would be a good time. Perhaps the four o f us can meet and then maybe you, your father and I could discuss things."

". . . Well, good night dear."

"Good night, Mother. Love you both."

"Love you, too, just as you are."

MEXICAN FIESTA SALAD

South of the Border

Add a touch of old Mexico to your next buffet dinner and serve this molded avocado salad that will bring back memories of that favorite dish, guacamole. Avocados have a smooth, rich, bland flavor that's not sweet or tart, but sometimes described as nut-like. Here, mashed avocados are combined with dairy sour cream, onion and a hint of chili powder. For a pleasant texture, color and flavor contrast to the creamy smooth, pastel salad, add a can of crisp golden whole kernel corn with red and green sweet peppers. Mexican foods are a galaxy of color and the corn adds a gay fiesta touch.

To round out your meal, serve crisp tortilla chips and tasty barbequed ribs. This salad is best when prepared in the morning to serve later in the day. It's another time-saving, ingenious recipe to add to your collection.

Fiesta Salad

3 large ripe avocados
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 cup water
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 (12-ounce) can golden whole kernel corn with red and green sweet peppers, drained

Peel avocados; remove seed. Mash avocados. Add salt, chili powder, lemon juice and onion.

Soften gelatine in water. Dissolve over hot water. Add sour cream, corn and avocado mixture; blend well. Pour into a 1¼-quart ring mold. Chill until firm, 3 to 4 hours. Unmold onto lettuce-lined plates. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Firm, White Halibut Steeped in Beer

From the clear blue waters of the North Pacific comes a fish which is the source of truly delicious dinner steaks. The prized halibut has a unique flavor, firm white flesh and is of uniformly high quality.

Right now it has the distinction of being on the Plentiful Foods list which means it's a main dish to watch for and use often. Like all fish, halibut is high in protein, low in fat and cooks in a few minutes. It is, in fact one of nature's original convenience foods.

In cooking fish, there are two things to watch. Never, never overcook. And keep the delicate flesh moist and succulent with just a few chosen seasonings. One of the classic liquids for cooking fish is beer. The natural flavors of beer daintily permeate the fish without overpowering the characteristic seafood taste. Steaming, poaching or simmering halibut in beer will guard against drying out, but timing must be observed.

PLENTIFUL PACIFIC HALIBUT STEAKS cook to perfection in 15 minutes in a shallow beer bath. Serve with a green vegetable and a sparkling glass of cold beer to bring the pride of the North Pacific to your table.

Halibut in Beer

2 (12-oz.) packages frozen halibut steaks
Salt
Paprika
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup beer
2 tablespoons chopped chives
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons water

Sprinkle frozen halibut steaks on both sides with salt and paprika. Melt butter or margarine in skillet; stir in lemon juice, beer and chives. Add fish. Cover pan and simmer gently for 10 to 15 minutes, or until fish flakes easily. Remove fish and keep warm. Mix cornstarch with water and stir into pan drippings. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Serve over fish Yield: 4 servings.

Doing the Right Thing

"HOSTESS HELPER" AN ALTERNATIVE TO "SITTING"

Girls get tired of baby-sitting, and today I would like to suggest an alternative part-time job for summer.

Several weeks ago a lady from my hometown called me on behalf of the local Youth Employment Service, an offshoot of the Youth Council, which is a group of adults and young people working together for good adult-teenage relationships. The Employment Service, is casting about for jobs available to high school girls, came up with the idea of "Hostess Helpers." Girls, through a central placement agent, will work by the hour, helping hostesses with parties of every kind. The lady asked me if I would give the girls some hints about correct serving, dress, etc. I think it is a wonderful idea because not only will the girls be performing a real service, they will be learning something that will be valuable to them for the rest of their lives. Should any of you be interested in starting a similar program, the following suggestions will be helpful, and for further advice please feel free to write me.

Arriving Early. The girls should plan to arrive early enough so that the hostess will have time to show them where all utensils and necessities are. The employer should also give instructions as to how she wishes dinner served, what she expects of her "helper," and special instructions, such as what may not go in the dishwasher.

Dress. Clean, simple dresses are most appropriate. They should not be unduly tight, low-cut, or short-skirted. The girls should wear aprons of some sort. Our particular group is planning to have a uniform apron—a sign that they have been hired through the Youth Employment Service. Otherwise the girls should take an apron of their own, or ask the hostess in advance if she will supply one.

Hair. Especially if it is long, should be tied back or put up. Nothing is less attractive that hair falling into a dish as the server leans over to pass it.

Equally disgusting are dirty hands or nails. No matter how well-groomed she may be otherwise, the girl must be immaculately clean.

Pay. I feel that the hourly wage should vary according to the work done. If a girl is hired only to hand things to the hostess and to wash up without appearing out of the kitchen, she should be paid less than the one who passes hors d'oeuvres, serves dinner, and cleans up as well. The first girl might receive a wage similar to that of a sitter—75 cents to one dollar an hour. Perhaps the second girl, who needs more experience and skill, should get a dollar and a half to two dollars an hour. The price must be in keeping with the community and the wages paid for other jobs.

Cocktail Parties

While "hostess helpers" are not expected to actually do the cooking, they should know how to prepare and present hors d'oeuvres. In most cases they should be expected to pass them. The girls should learn to put paper doilies under "dry" hors d'oeuvres or bowls of dip. The doilie is not used under anything "runny," as it would soon become soggy. HOSPITAL DRILL — Evaluating results of Benedictine Hospital drill (front L-R) are Firefighters William Schwerdtfeger and Gerard Kelder Jr., Captain Hugh Greer and Fireman Frank Purcell. Rear (L) are Philip Maines, fire alarm electrician; and Firefighters Frank Ostrander, Robert Gollnick and William Hornbeck.

Fire Drill at Benedictine — Staff and Firemen Commended

A fire drill was held at the Benedictine Hospital Thursday by Captain Hugh Greer of the Kingston Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau, in order to evaluate the efficiency of the personnel of the hospital in the event of a fire.

The fire drill was requested by Sister Mary Charles, OBS, administrator and Gerald Nocton, assistant administrator of Benedictine.

Captain Greer was assisted in the drill by Philip Maines, fire alarm electrician; Lt. Philip Greer and Fire Fighters William Schwerdtfeger, Frank Ostrander, William Loeffler, Robert Gollnick, William Hornbeck, Frank Purcell and Gerard Kelder Jr. All of the Fire Department personnel with the exception of Captain Greer and Maines, were off duty at the time and had offered their services voluntarily.

The drill was a surprise to all but a few of the staff of Benedictine Hospital.

A simulated fire in a utility room was reported to Miss Eileen Reis, RN, head nurse of the pediatrics floor. Miss Reis immediately alerted her staff, notified the switchboard operator of the fire and its location and then pulled the internal fire alarm box.

Captain Greer had high praise for the efficiency and quick action of Miss Reis, her staff and the entire personnel of the hospital. A critique was held in the office of Nocton following the drill with a view toward further increasing the efficiency in the event of fire or other emergency. Captain Greer also commended most highly the men of the Kingston Fire Department who gave up their day off in order to aid in the drill and subsequent tour of the hospital.

Await Rocky's Final Touch On Judgeships

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature looked confidently to Gov. Rockefeller today to add the final touch of approval to its plan to create 125 new judgeships across New York State.

Unanimous bi - partisan support sped the judgeship bill to final legislative approval Thursday in the Assembly, three days after it cleared the Senate without dissent.

Legislative leaders appeared virtually certain that the Republican governor would endorse the Senate-Assembly action.

For one thing, they pointed out that the bill had been handled on a non-political basis in the legislature. And they believed that the governor would read the unanimous legislative support as a clear call for him to concur.

Rockefeller's approval would crack through two decades of frustration for interests seeking to ease widening court congestion.

The bill would authorize 50 more State Supreme Court judgeships and create new seats on 75 other courts, including County, Family and Surrogate courts and New York City's Civil and Criminal Courts.

It was based directly on recommendations of the State Judicial Conference, a panel of the state's highest-ranking jurists which has been pleading for more judges for the courts for several years.

The new judges would be elected in November, except for New York City Family and Criminal Court judges, who would be appointed by the mayor. All would take office in January.

The cost of paying them and their staffs has been estimated at $8 million a year. The state pays part of the judges' salaries, while local communities finance the remainder.

The sudden breakthrough on the judgeship problem this year surprised many persons close to the governmental scene. For two decades, political bickering among leaders snarled all efforts to pass a wide - ranging judgeship bill.

Lions Governor To Be Honored At Sunday Fete

In recognition of the completion of his term as district governor of the 60 Lions Clubs in the Hudson Valley District, a testimonial dinner is being held for Albert H. LaVine on Sunday at the Casa Fiesta in Middletown.

The testimonial of homecoming dinner is the traditional gathering of representatives of the Lions Clubs in the district to pay tribute to the district governor when he makes his last official visit to his home club, the Middletown Lions Club.

LaVine has served at the district level for the past five years as zone chairman, deputy district governor, sight conservation chairman, and membership chairman. He was elected district governor in Buffalo at the New York State Convention in June 1967.

Early Court Decision Is Expected On Zena School Contracting Firm

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

An early decision is expected in the matter of the application of Stanley R. Benjamin, Inc., Long Beach general contractors, seeking to set aside and vacate a decision of State Education Commissioner James E. Allen, Jr., relating to the awarding of contracts for the new Zena Elementary School.

The order of show cause was heard on April 15 before Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Conway, presiding at a special term in Albany. Justice Conway, contacted in Kingston Wednesday afternoon while he was presiding at a special term, said he would review the papers and other material associated with the Zena School case in the near future and hoped to arrive at a decision soon.

Justice Conway has been busily engaged in trials the last several weeks.

The Long Beach firm submitted the low bid of $819,940 for the general construction contract for the new school last December. The second low bid was submitted by William Forrest, Inc., general contractors of Poughkeepsie. That bid totalled $823,000. Twelve other bids for the contract were received, the highest totaling $929,203 was filed by a Hunter contracting firm.

Local Board Balked

The Kingston Board of Education (Consolidated) was prepared to award the contract at a meeting on Jan. 4 but was balked in their plans by an order by Dr. Allen setting aside the specifications for the Zena School and ordering the Board of Education to reject all bids and to prepare new specifications.

Dr. Allen sustained the appeal of the Poughkeepsie contracting firm.

Subsequently, new specifications were perpared as ordered by the commissioner, but again the school district officials were confronted with a problem relating to awarding the contracts.

On March 12, Supreme Court Justice John H. Pennock signed a show cause order on application by the Long Beach contractors. This stayed the order of Dr. Allen from ordering the preparation of any new specifications as ordered by the commissioner on Feb. 26.

A hearing was held in Albany before Justice Conway on April 15, and the decision is pending. The show cause order called upon Dr. Allen and the Kingston Board of Education to show cause why a judgment should not be made annulling and vacating a decision of the commissioner.

Called Unreasonable

The Long Beach firm contended that Dr. Allen's ruling was "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable."

Stanley R. Benjamin Inc., cited in papers submitted to the Supreme Court in the show cause order application, 16 building projects, mostly schools, the the firm had constructed. These included the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School at Lake Katrine 1967-68; the Kingston Elementary Schools 5 and 6 and schools in other areas of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

A decision by Justice Conway virtually would "untie the hands" of the Board of Education and permit the board to proceed with action that would result in expediting plans for the start of construction of the Zena School.

In the appeal papers submitted by the Poughkeepsie contractors, the firm contended that provisions of Section 101 of the General Municipal Law and Planning Standards for school buildings require inclusion of sanitary sewage and storm water systems in the plumbing contract, and not in the general contract, although the latter has been the policy in numerous occasions relating to new school specifications.

School districts insist that the delay in awarding contracts for the Zena School has brought about a hardship, especially as related to the need for more classrooms to relieve the existing population growth and overcrowded conditions in some of the city school district school buildings.

Two Gotham Problems Still Facing Legislature

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature struggled toward adjournment of its 1968 session today, with two New York City problems posing the last major impediments to an orderly wind-up.

The Legislature's top-ranking Republican, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, held the key to one of the issues — whether to move on a compromise plan for decentralizing the city's school system.

Brydges abruptly postponed a showdown vote on the school bill Thursday, complaining that he did not have enough Democratic support for the Republican-drawn plan. Later, however, he expressed confidence that he would have sufficient Democratic backing today.

The legislature's Democratic leaders, Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia and Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki, were calling the signals on the other big question — whether to approve expanded taxing powers for Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Lindsay, bidding for more revenue to finance his new budget, won approval from the Democratic - controlled City Council Thursday night for an $82.7-million revenue package.

The Council agreed to send "home - rule" messages to Albany requesting action on the revenue measures. This was calculated to appease Travia and Zaretzki, who had insisted that Democratic legislators from New York City would not vote for higher local taxes in this election year without a request from the Council.

Brydges was shooting for final adjournment of the 1968 legislative session early tonight. Travia agreed that this was a desirable goal but expressed the reservation that the legislature might not be able to complete operations until Saturday morning.

Besides the New York City measures, the lawmakers had to deal with two big money bills — a plan drafted by Rockefeller and the legislative leaders to give $290 million in special aid to the state's cities during the next three years and a supplemental budget of $497.5 million.

Fire Drill at Benedictine — Staff and Firemen Commended

A fire drill was held at the Benedictine Hospital Thursday by Captain Hugh Greer of the Kingston Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau, in order to evaluate the efficiency of the personnel of the hospital in the event of a fire.

The fire drill was requested by Sister Mary Charles, OBS, administrator and Gerald Nocton, assistant administrator of Benedictine.

Captain Greer was assisted in the drill by Philip Maines, fire alarm electrician; Lt. Philip Greer and Fire Fighters William Schwerdtfeger, Frank Ostrander, William Loeffler, Robert Gollnick, William Hornbeck, Frank Purcell and Gerard Kelder Jr. All of the Fire Department personnel with the exception of Captain Greer and Maines, were off duty at the time and had offered their services voluntarily.

The drill was a surprise to all but a few of the staff of Benedictine Hospital.

A simulated fire in a utility room was reported to Miss Eileen Reis, RN, head nurse of the pediatrics floor. Miss Reis immediately alerted her staff, notified the switchboard operator of the fire and its location and then pulled the internal fire alarm box.

Captain Greer had high praise for the efficiency and quick action of Miss Reis, her staff and the entire personnel of the hospital. A critique was held in the office of Nocton following the drill with a view toward further increasing the efficiency in the event of fire or other emergency. Captain Greer also commended most highly the men of the Kingston Fire Department who gave up their day off in order to aid in the drill and subsequent tour of the hospital.

Lions Governor To Be Honored At Sunday Fete

In recognition of the completion of his term as district governor of the 60 Lions Clubs in the Hudson Valley District, a testimonial dinner is being held for Albert H. LaVine on Sunday at the Casa Fiesta in Middletown.

The testimonial of homecoming dinner is the traditional gathering of representatives of the Lions Clubs in the district to pay tribute to the district governor when he makes his last official visit to his home club, the Middletown Lions Club.

LaVine has served at the district level for the past five years as zone chairman, deputy district governor, sight conservation chairman, and membership chairman. He was elected district governor in Buffalo at the New York State Convention in June 1967.

Await Rocky's Final Touch On Judgeships

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature looked confidently to Gov. Rockefeller today to add the final touch of approval to its plan to create 125 new judgeships across New York State.

Unanimous bi-partisan support sped the judgeship bill to final legislative approval Thursday in the Assembly, three days after it cleared the Senate without dissent.

Legislative leaders appeared virtually certain that the Republican governor would endorse the Senate-Assembly action.

For one thing, they pointed out that the bill had been handled on a non-political basis in the legislature. And they believed that the governor would read the unanimous legislative support as a clear call for him to concur.

Rockefeller's approval would crack through two decades of frustration for interests seeking to ease widening court congestion.

The bill would authorize 50 more State Supreme Court judgeships and create new seats on 75 other courts, including County, Family and Surrogate courts and New York City's Civil and Criminal Courts.

It was based directly on recommendations of the State Judicial Conference, a panel of the state's highest-ranking jurists which has been pleading for more judges for the courts for several years.

The new judges would be elected in November, except for New York City Family and Criminal Court judges, who would be appointed by the mayor. All would take office in January.

The cost of paying them and their staffs has been estimated at $8 million a year. The state pays part of the judges' salaries, while local communities finance the remainder.

The sudden breakthrough on the judgeship problem this year surprised many persons close to the governmental scene. For two decades, political bickering among leaders snarled all efforts to pass a wide-ranging judgeship bill.

Early Court Decision Is Expected On Zena School Contracting Firm

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

An early decision is expected in the matter of the application of Stanley R. Benjamin, Inc., Long Beach general contractors, seeking to set aside and vacate a decision of State Education Commissioner James E. Allen, Jr., relating to the awarding of contracts for the new Zena Elementary School.

The order of show cause was heard on April 15 before Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Conway, presiding at a special term in Albany. Justice Conway, contacted in Kingston Wednesday afternoon while he was presiding at a special term, said he would review the papers and other material associated with the Zena School case in the near future and hoped to arrive at a decision soon.

Justice Conway has been busily engaged in trials the last several weeks.

The Long Beach firm submitted the low bid of $819,940 for the general construction contract for the new school last December. The second low bid was submitted by William Ferrest, Inc., general contractors of Poughkeepsie. That bid totalled $823,600. Twelve other bids for the contract were received, the highest totaling $929,203 was filed by a Hunter contracting firm.

Local Board Balked

The Kingston Board of Education (Consolidated) was prepared to award the contract at a meeting on Jan. 4 but was balked in their plans by an order by Dr. Allen setting aside the specifications for the Zena School and ordering the Board of Education to reject all bids and to prepare new specifications.

Dr. Allen sustained the appeal of the Poughkeepsie contracting firm.

Subsequently, new specifications were perpared as ordered by the commissioner, but again the school district officials were confronted with a problem relating to awarding the contracts.

On March 12, Supreme Court Justice John H. Pennock signed a show cause order on application by the Long Beach contractors. This stayed the order of Dr. Allen from ordering the preparation of any new specifications as ordered by the commissioner on Feb. 26.

A hearing was held in Albany before Justice Conway on April 15, and the decision is pending. The show cause order called upon Dr. Allen and the Kingston Board of Education to show cause why a judgment should not be made annulling and vacating a decision of the commissioner.

Called Unreasonable

The Long Beach firm contended that Dr. Allen's ruling was "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable."

Stanley R. Benjamin Inc., cited in papers submitted to the Supreme Court in the show cause order application, 16 building projects, mostly schools, the the firm had constructed. These included the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School at Lake Katrine 1967-68; the Kingston Elementary Schools 5 and 6 and schools in other areas of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

A decision by Justice Conway virtually would "untie the hands" of the Board of Education and permit the board to proceed with action that would result in expediting plans for the start of construction of the Zena School.

In the appeal papers submitted by the Poughkeepsie contractors, the firm contended that provisions of Section 101 of the General Municipal Law and Planning Standards for school buildings require inclusion of sanitary sewage and storm water systems in the plumbing contract, and not in the general contract, although the latter has been the policy in numerous occasions relating to new school specifications.

School districts insist that the delay in awarding contracts for the Zena School has brought about a hardship, especially as related to the need for more classrooms to relieve the existing population growth and overcrowded conditions in some of the city school district school buildings.

Two Gotham Problems Still Facing Legislature

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature struggled toward adjournment of its 1968 session today, with two New York City problems posing the last major impediments to an orderly windup.

The Legislature's top-ranking Republican, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, held the key to one of the issues — whether to move on a compromise plan for decentralizing the city's school system.

Historic Shawangunk Site Threatened by Reservoir

An historical property in Shawangunk Valley, Ulster County, is threatened by a proposed reservoir. It is among 95 houses which would necessarily be acquired by the state should the proposed subject become a realization.

"Brykill," owned by the Bruyn family for all but 60 years since 1694, has been preserved and is still used as a residence by Mrs. William Bruyn.

Dual Purpose

Known as the Ganahgote site, the 3,850 acres planned for the reservoir would serve a dual purpose—as a source of water supply and for recreation.

It is located in the lower sub-basin on Shawangunk Kill near its confluence with the Wallkill River.

According to a recent report of the New York State Water Resources Commission, a major recreation area could be developed on the west shore opposite the dam site, with a commanding view of almost the entire lake and the steep Shawangunk Mountains to the west.

The project involves 142 square miles and would provide an anticipated 96 million gallons of water per day.

Cheaper than some other proposed projects, the Ganahgote's acquisition cost has been estimated at $3,160,000. The project ranks third among 18 proposed throughout the state and third among nine considered for the Hudson-Mohawk River Basin.

However, cautions Ulster County Planning Board spokesmen, the site is only considered a potential one and it has not been officially recommended by the state. "It is in the thinking stages." No money has been allocated as yet and if approved today it would probably be five years before the project would be started.

Others in Thinking Stage

Also in the thinking stages are several other smaller reservoirs for the county. Mentioned are Yankeetown Reservoir in Bearsville, Saugerties Reservoir and Vernooykill Reservoir, about two and one-half miles upstream from Rt. 209, Wawarsing.

It has also been pointed out that the smaller reservoirs would have to be approved by the N.Y.S. Dept. of Health and that information supplied to the state indicates they could be used as water supply sites. None of the reports state that they were necessarily the best site location, however.

The aforementioned historic property in Shawangunk Valley has been preserved over the years by the Bruyn family.

Jacobus Bruyn, a ship's carpenter, born in Norway about 1640, was said to be the son of Jacobus Bruyn and his wife, Esther who came to the new world in 1660.

Holland was then considered a land of opportunity and along with numerous other nationalities, Bruyn came first to Nieuw Amsterdam and then to Wiltwyck (Kingston).

About 1677 he married a young Dutch woman, Gertrude Esselstyne of Columbia County who was born in Nieuw Amsterdam (New York City) in 1645. Her portrait, painted by Peter Vanderlyn about 1700, still remains at "Brykill" to testify to her strength of character and "pioneer spirit."

Jacobus Bruyn died in 1684 leaving a wife and two children, a son Jacobus and a daughter Esther.

In this new land, according to Kenneth Hasbrouck, today's Ulster County historian, it was customary to acquire land of one's own. Therefore, his widow, Gertrude, continued with the endeavor which her husband had hoped to achieve. By 1694, she with her two children had taken up residence in the Shawangunk Valley on a grant of land, given by the English King. (The English had taken New Netherlands in 1664 and Ulster County was part of their holdings.)

She remarried, a neighbor, Severyn Tenout and their combined properties went to the Bruyn children and grandchildren.

Frontier Then

Shawangunk was a frontier in those days. It was a wilderness, but a fertile valley, watered by the Shawangunk Kill, ready for those energetic enough to put it under cultivation.

The Bruyns flourished in the valley. Jacobus Bruyn II purchased more land and the first stone house built by the family was enlarged several times.

The community in which they resided was called Brunswick.

A turnpike, a street in Kingston, a cemetery and a section of the Shawangunk Mountains retain the Bruyn name. Descendents went forth to become judges, lawyers, legislators, educators and doctors. Members of the family had leading roles in the life of the county and state for generations.

On June 30, 1744, Jacobus made a will in which he mentioned his son Cornelius, leaving him land in Ulster County called "Panasink" on the north side of Shawangunk Creek and land on the south side of the creek.

This gift was the beginning of a second Bruyn homestead. Cornelius Bruyn, born in 1711 married Ida Hoffman in 1743 and it was then that he built the oldest portion of the house now known as Brykill.

The home farm and the house of Cornelius passed to his son Zacharias Bruyn in 1777. Zacharias' wife Elizabeth LeFevre was of the French Huguenot Family, LeFevre of New Paltz.

She outlived her husband by 30 years and when she died in 1840, the estate had to be divided. The property was sold and soon the Abner Hasbrouck family took possession and retained it for about three generations.

In the early 1900's William E. Bruyn purchased the house and land thereby bringing the property back into the hands of the Bruyn family.

He later hired Ulster County architect Myron Teller to begin work on the house. During the years 1927 and 1929, Teller, an authority on old stone houses, designed and created large extensions to the house, enclosing most of the original one-story structure within the new edifice.

He created the same colonial style architecture of the original house.

Simplicity, Good Taste

Great beams and wide floor boards were purchased from other old houses and handwrought iron fixtures were produced. Simplicity and good taste marked the entire completed project.

The interior of the house is said to be beautifully planned. Dutch tiles now outline the fireplaces, walls are panelled in aged pine and even the original well was kept in the breezeway which connects the two main wings. It is a home that would please any person who has an appreciation of excellence, according to Hasbrouck who states that it is the finest edifice of its kind in the Hudson Valley.

Historic Shawangunk Site Threatened by Reservoir

An historical property in Shawangunk Valley, Ulster County, is threatened by a proposed reservoir. It is among 95 houses which would necessarily be acquired by the state should the proposed subject become a realization.

"Brykill," owned by the Bruyn family for all but 60 years since 1694, has been preserved and is still used as a residence by Mrs. William Bruyn.

Dual Purpose

Known as the Ganahgote site, the 3,850 acres planned for the reservoir would serve a dual purpose—as a source of water supply and for recreation.

It is located in the lower sub-basin on Shawangunk Kill near its confluence with the Wallkill River.

According to a recent report of the New York State Water Resources Commission, a major recreation area could be developed on the west shore opposite the dam site, with a commanding view of almost the entire lake and the steep Shawangunk Mountains to the west.

The project involves 142 square miles and would provide an anticipated 96 million gallons of water per day.

Cheaper than some other proposed projects, the Ganahgote's acquisition cost has been estimated at $3,160,000. The project ranks third among 18 proposed throughout the state and third among nine considered for the Hudson-Mohawk River Basin.

However, cautions Ulster County Planning Board spokesmen, the site is only considered a potential one and it has not been officially recommended by the state. "It is in the thinking stages." No money has been allocated as yet and if approved today it would probably be five years before the project would be started.

Others in Thinking Stage

Also in the thinking stages are several other smaller reservoirs for the county. Mentioned are Yankeetown Reservoir in Bearsville, Saugerties Reservoir and Vernooykill Reservoir, about two and one-half miles upstream from Rt. 209, Wawarsing.

It has also been pointed out that the smaller reservoirs would have to be approved by the N.Y.S. Dept. of Health and that information supplied to the state indicates they could be used as water supply sites. None of the reports state that they were necessarily the best site location, however.

The aforementioned historic property in Shawangunk Valley has been preserved over the years by the Bruyn family.

Jacobus Bruyn, a ship's carpenter, born in Norway about 1640, was said to be the son of Jacobus Bruyn and his wife, Esther who came to the new world in 1660.

Summon Driver After Mishap

Leeds state police investigated two motor vehicle accidents on Thursday and reported no injuries, but one driver was summoned on a charge of failure to yield the right of way.

Cars driven by John A. Dul, 54, of 16 New Street, Catskill, and Claude J. Dederick, 22, of Round Top, collided on Route 9W at the intersection of Schoharie Turnpike at Athens at 4:05 p. m. Dederick was cited for the violation.

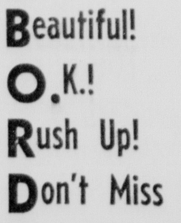

Troopers said Dul was driving south on Route 9W and the Dederick car entered that highway from the turnpike and the crash followed.

At 3:10 p. m. Janet Kaskaneas, 43, of Tannersville, narrowly escaped injury when she lost control of her car on wet pavement as she tried to avoid hitting a deer that crossed County Road, 25 at Leggs Road near Leeds. The vehicle went off the south side of the pavement and flipped over on its top.

Among the topics to be covered are the trends in nursing education which have contributed to the recently announced phase-out of both local hospital nursing schools and the addition of nurse education to the Ulster County Community College curriculum.

No Indictment

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A grand jury refused Thursday to indict Eugene Boo, 31, of Albany, who had been charged with murder in the death of a 38-year-old man.

Samuel Lowe, also of Albany, died after falling from a window of his third-floor apartment. Police had accused Boo of pushing Lowe during a party.

Name Savago As Treasurer Of New Council

A seven-county Mid-Hudson Inter-County Council has been formed "to consider problems of mutual interest to federal, state, and local governments."

The Chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, Peter J. Savago, has been appointed treasurer of the organization.

Included in the council are elected officials from Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Sullivan and Ulster Counties.

One of the purposes behind the council's creation is to "provide a forum for the exchange of ideas in connection with local government."

Chairman Savago declared that both Legislative Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye and Minority Leader Roger Mabie will serve on the organization.

The council will meet at least four times a year.

Collapses, Dies

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A 24-year-old Army reservist collapsed and died Thursday during field exercises at nearby Camp Drum.

Pfc. Robert W. Mattioli of Trenton, N.J., died of a brain hemorrhage, Army officials said.

Mattioli was a member of the 50th Armored Division, which began two weeks of training Saturday.

Area Teacher Scores High in National Test

Rondout Valley Central School teacher of agriculture, Walter Elmore, has placed among the top one per cent of the teachers completing a recent national dairy judging contest.

Placing ninth among the 1,257 teachers of agriculture, Elmore received honorable mention for his placings in the 38th annual Hoard's Dairyman cow judging contest.

Elmore earned a score of 468 of a possible 500 points in the contest. Judging all five major dairy breeds, Elmore had one perfect class and switched only one cow in each of the remaining four classes.

Summon Driver After Mishap

Leeds state police investigated two motor vehicle accidents on Thursday and reported no injuries, but one driver was summoned on a charge of failure to yield the right of way.

Cars driven by John A. Dul, 54, of 16 New Street, Catskill, and Claude J. Dederick, 22, of Round Top, collided on Route 9W at the intersection of Schoharie Turnpike at Athens at 4:05 p. m. Dederick was cited for the violation.

Troopers said Dul was driving south on Route 9W and the Dederick car entered that highway from the turnpike and the crash followed.

At 3:10 p. m. Janet Kaskaneas, 43, of Tannersville, narrowly escaped injury when she lost control of her car on wet pavement as she tried to avoid hitting a deer that crossed County Road, 25 at Leggs Road near Leeds. The vehicle went off the south side of the pavement and flipped over on its top.

Governor Might Get 35G Hike in Salary

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The salary of New York's governor — the highest paid a state's chief executive — would jump from $50,000 to $85,000 a year, under legislation quietly introduced in the legislature.

In addition, the lieutenant governor would receive a $15,000 - a - year boost, bringing his salary to $45,000.

Millionaire Gov. Rockefeller and Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson would have to be re-elected to get the increases, however, since the salaries of elected officers cannot be altered during their terms of office.

The hikes were proposed in a resolution introduced Tuesday.

The governor's salary reached $50,000 during then Gov. Averell Harriman's term. Rockefeller succeeded Harriman in 1959 and was the first to receive that amount.

Comparatively, the states paying the next highest salaries are Pennsylvania, $45,000, California, $44,000, and Texas, $40,000.

The move to increase the salaries of the governor and lieutenant governor was followed by proposals Thursday to award $110,500 in special expense allowances to the chairmen and ranking minority members of 17 legislative committees.

The allowances are known on Capitol Hill as "lulus" — lump-sum payments given in lieu of an itemized accounting of expenses.

The increases for the lawmakers would range up to $5,000.

Wilson, who receives $17,000 for expenses in addition to his $30,000 salary, would get another $3,000 under the allowance plan.

Body of Boy Found

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The body of an eight-year-old Fort Erie, Ont. boy, missing since last January, has been found on a shore of nearby Grand Island along the west branch of the Niagara River.

Police said the body of Timothy C. Lascek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lascek, was found late Thursday.

They said he drowned Jan. 29 after he fell from an ice boom at the mouth of the river at Fort Erie.

Non-Resident Charge Listed By MV Dept.

Non-resident seasonal farm laborers no longer require a special driving permit to drive a vehicle in New York and may use their out-of-state driver's license, according to a reminder from the State Department of Motor Vehicles received by County Clerk Albert Spada.

Spada said the new law went into effect March 21 and repeals the previous requirement of the Vehicle and Traffic Law.

With the repeal of this requirement, out-of-state operator's licenses held by non-resident seasonal farm laborers will be afforded the same recognition give out-of-state driver's licenses held by other non-residents.

Under the New York one license concept, out-of-state driver's licenses issued in a non-resident's home state will be recognized for operation in New York as long as such non-resident does not become a domiciliary of the state. In such non-resident changes his residence (domicile) to New York, he will have 60 days from the date he becomes a New York resident to obtain his New York driver's license.

This does not repeal the provision of Section 250 of the V&T Law relating to the issuance of special permits for vehicles which are owned by non-resident seasonal farm laborers.

Plan No Action

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cornell University says it will take no action against 60 Negro students who staged a seven-hour sit-in April 4 to protest alleged racist remarks by a professor.

Robert Miller, dean of the faculty, also said the university would take no action against the target of the demonstration, the Rev. Michael McPhelin.

The students held the demonstration in the Economics Department and, for a while, blocked the department chairman from leaving his office.

More Negroes in TV and Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Peyton Place" adds a Negro family this fall.

Diahann Carroll stars in her own dramatic series. Three Negroes will be among its script-writers.

Yes, as you may already have noticed, more Negroes than ever are working in television.

In movies, too. The first feature film ever directed by a Negro rolls this summer. And in two films Negroes will costar romantically with whites—Lena Horne with Richard Widmark, Raquel Welch with Jim Brown.

Brown, the football star, turned actor, will play love scenes with the shapely Miss Welch in "100 Rifles," an outdoor adventure drama from 20th Century-Fox. Miss Horne will portray Widmark's sweetheart who marries him near the end of a Universal Western, "Patch." It will be Lena's first nonsinging movie performance.

Once Negroes were almost nonexistent on the screen, or were caricatures, the foils for harsh, streotyped comedy. In response to pressure from civil rights groups, they began getting more and better parts. "Tokenism," many called it.

A bigger break-through has come in, roughly, the last year.

Not that Negroes have it made in their drive for more work before and behind the cameras. Far from it, especially behind.

Some still call it tokenism, among them Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian who became a civil rights activist. He says: "They're not fooling anyone with what they're doing, throwing out a bone here and there."

A Negro booker of Negro movie-television talent says her business is up nearly 150 per cent over last year.

Latest available statistics compare the third quarter of 1966 with the third quarter of 1966—13 feature pictures started, with 18 Negro actors.

1967—30 movies, 93 Negroes.

The television comparison is similar. For Negro technicians hired in both movies and television in the three-month periods the increase was: 1966—84; 1967—108.

Any television viewer realizes that more Negroes now appear in commercials, usually with white performers.

Negro players plug deodorants, mouthwash, toothpaste, salad oil, carbonated water, soft drinks, airlines, toys, beer, cigarettes, life insurance, cameras, etc.

The movies' first Negro feature director is Gordon Parks, author, composer and for 20 years a Life magazine photographer. He's filming tests before taking his cameras to Fort Scott, Kan., to film his autobiographical novel, "The Learning Tree," for Warner Bros.-Seven Arts.

Parks credits studio head Ken Hyman with "a lot of guts for hiring me. He gave me the chance because he believes I can do it and not because I'm a Negro," Parks told the Hollywood Reporter.

Exclusive of actors, Universal Studio employs 393 Negroes, an increase of about 10 per cent over a year ago and nearly 10 per cent of its total employment. Many are office workers.

Three years ago, Variety noted, the television industry "was truly surprised when NBC-TV and executive producer Sheldon Leonard cast Bill Cosby as co-star with Bob Culp in 'I Spy,' but today crossing television's color line is a common occurrence."

Three ABC-TV shows premiering this fall, "Land of the Giants," "The Outcasts" and "The Mod Squad," will have Negro regulars. At NBC, "I Spy" has been dropped, but Miss Carroll will start her series, "Julia," with a 6-year-old playing her son. Negroes continue on "Star Trek" and "Ironside." NBC has signed comedian Flip Wilson to what it calls a long-term contract.

Why the upsurge in Negro employment?

Says Lillian Cumber, the talent agent whose business has increased nearly 150 per cent:

"Basically it's economics. Civil rights groups have been demanding that the industry use more Negroes and if it doesn't they're going to boycott certain products. Movies see that something is successful, and they follow the tide."

Governor Might Get 35G Hike in Salary

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The salary of New York's governor — the highest paid a state's chief executive — would jump from $50,000 to $85,000 a year, under legislation quietly introduced in the legislature.

In addition, the lieutenant governor would receive a $15,000 - a - year boost, bringing his salary to $45,000.

Millionaire Gov. Rockefeller and Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson would have to be re-elected to get the increases, however, since the salaries of elected officers cannot be altered during their terms of office.

The hikes were proposed in a resolution introduced Tuesday.

The governor's salary reached $50,000 during then Gov. Averell Harriman's term. Rockefeller succeeded Harriman in 1959 and was the first to receive that amount.

Comparatively, the states paying the next highest salaries are Pennsylvania, $45,000, California, $44,000, and Texas, $40,000.

The move to increase the salaries of the governor and lieutenant governor was followed by proposals Thursday to award $110,500 in special expense allowances to the chairmen and ranking minority members of 17 legislative committees.

The allowances are known on Capitol Hill as "lulus" — lump-sum payments given in lieu of an itemized accounting of expenses.

The increases for the lawmakers would range up to $5,000.

Wilson, who receives $17,000 for expenses in addition to his $30,000 salary, would get another $3,000 under the allowance plan.

Body of Boy Found

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The body of an eight-year-old Fort Erie, Ont. boy, missing since last January, has been found on a shore of nearby Grand Island along the west branch of the Niagara River.

Police said the body of Timothy C. Lascek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lascek, was found late Thursday.

They said he drowned Jan. 29 after he fell from an ice boom at the mouth of the river at Fort Erie.

Non-Resident Charge Listed By MV Dept.

Non-resident seasonal farm laborers no longer require a special driving permit to drive a vehicle in New York and may use their out-of-state driver's license, according to a reminder from the State Department of Motor Vehicles received by County Clerk Albert Spada.

Spada said the new law went into effect March 21 and repeals the previous requirement of the Vehicle and Traffic Law.

With the repeal of this requirement, out-of-state operator's licenses held by non-resident seasonal farm laborers will be afforded the same recognition give out-of-state driver's licenses held by other non-residents.

Under the New York one license concept, out-of-state driver's licenses issued in a non-resident's home state will be recognized for operation in New York as long as such non-resident does not become a domiciliary of the state. In such non-resident changes his residence (domicile) to New York, he will have 60 days from the date he becomes a New York resident to obtain his New York driver's license.

This does not repeal the provision of Section 250 of the V&T Law relating to the issuance of special permits for vehicles which are owned by non-resident seasonal farm laborers.

Plan No Action

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cornell University says it will take no action against 60 Negro students who staged a seven-hour sit-in April 4 to protest alleged racist remarks by a professor.

Robert Miller, dean of the faculty, also said the university would take no action against the target of the demonstration, the Rev. Michael McPhelin.

The students held the demonstration in the Economics Department and, for a while, blocked the department chairman from leaving his office.

More Negroes in TV and Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Peyton Place" adds a Negro family this fall.

Diahann Carroll stars in her own dramatic series. Three Negroes will be among its script-writers.

Yes, as you may already have noticed, more Negroes than ever are working in television.

In movies, too. The first feature film ever directed by a Negro rolls this summer. And in two films Negroes will costar romantically with whites—Lena Horne with Richard Widmark, Raquel Welch with Jim Brown.

Brown, the football star, turned actor, will play love scenes with the shapely Miss Welch in "100 Rifles," an outdoor adventure drama from 20th Century-Fox. Miss Horne will portray Widmark's sweetheart who marries him near the end of a Universal Western, "Patch." It will be Lena's first nonsinging movie performance.

Once Negroes were almost nonexistent on the screen, or were caricatures, the foils for harsh, streotyped comedy. In response to pressure from civil rights groups, they began getting more and better parts. "Tokenism," many called it.

A bigger break-through has come in, roughly, the last year.

Not that Negroes have it made in their drive for more work before and behind the cameras. Far from it, especially behind.

Some still call it tokenism, among them Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian who became a civil rights activist. He says: "They're not fooling anyone with what they're doing, throwing out a bone here and there."

Don Mitchell, Raymond Burr's Negro aide on "Ironside," says more Negro actors are working, but behind the camera "there's not a single Negro stuntman, electrician, cameraman—you name it. They just don't exist."

A Negro booker of Negro movie-television talent says her business is up nearly 150 per cent over last year.

Latest available statistics compare the third quarter of 1966 with the third quarter of 1966—13 feature pictures started, with 18 Negro actors.

1967—30 movies, 93 Negroes.

The television comparison is similar. For Negro technicians hired in both movies and television in the three-month periods the increase was: 1966—84; 1967—108.

Any television viewer realizes that more Negroes now appear in commercials, usually with white performers.

Negro players plug deodorants, mouthwash, toothpaste, salad oil, carbonated water, soft drinks, airlines, toys, beer, cigarettes, life insurance, cameras, etc.

The movies' first Negro feature director is Gordon Parks, author, composer and for 20 years a Life magazine photographer. He's filming tests before taking his cameras to Fort Scott, Kan., to film his autobiographical novel, "The Learning Tree," for Warner Bros.-Seven Arts.

Parks credits studio head Ken Hyman with "a lot of guts for hiring me. He gave me the chance because he believes I can do it and not because I'm a Negro," Parks told the Hollywood Reporter.

Exclusive of actors, Universal Studio employs 393 Negroes, an increase of about 10 per cent over a year ago and nearly 10 per cent of its total employment. Many are office workers.

Three years ago, Variety noted, the television industry "was truly surprised when NBC-TV and executive producer Sheldon Leonard cast Bill Cosby as co-star with Bob Culp in 'I Spy,' but today crossing television's color line is a common occurrence."

Three ABC-TV shows premiering this fall, "Land of the Giants," "The Outcasts" and "The Mod Squad," will have Negro regulars. At NBC, "I Spy" has been dropped, but Miss Carroll will start her series, "Julia," with a 6-year-old playing her son. Negroes continue on "Star Trek" and "Ironside." NBC has signed comedian Flip Wilson to what it calls a long-term contract.

Why the upsurge in Negro employment?

Says Lillian Cumber, the talent agent whose business has increased nearly 150 per cent:

"Basically it's economics. Civil rights groups have been demanding that the industry use more Negroes and if it doesn't they're going to boycott certain products. Movies see that something is successful, and they follow the tide."

Mantle Is Greatest

Working Press

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

They asked Benny Borgmann the inevitable question at the Old Timers Hall of Fame dinner and his response titillated some and must have surprised others in the elite baseball audience.

Mickey Mantle is (was) the greatest of the modern major league super stars, said Borgmann, a basketball immortal who has spent 36 years in minor league basball.

Significantly, 32 of those 36 years were spent as manager, coach and player in the St. Louis Cardinal farm system, covering the full span of Stan Musial's glory years.

Greater than Musial, Ted Williams or Willie Mays?

"He was just perfect," said the now Minnesota Twin chief of scouts, in a strong, declarative statement that brooked no rebuttal.

Borgmann, understandably, declined to compare Mantle and Musial or the others. He praised Musial as one of the greatest hitters in baseball history.

But, said the former Kingston basketball star of four decades ago, Mickey Mantle is the greatest athlete "I ever saw."

"Mantle could do everything," Borgmann went on. He could run, he could fly. He had the arm and the legs and was a great batter, the best switch hitter in the history of baseball.

"There have been many stars who excelled in one department or another — hitting, running, fielding, but Mickey Mantle did them all better than any player I ever saw," said Benny. "And he had a good head — seldom made a tactical mistake, a fine attitude and motivation. I'd have to say again he was just perfect."

BORGMANN TOSSED in another surprise on the subject of the greatest major league mangers of his time. He deftly skirted a clinical analysis of Casey Stengel's talents as a field pilot and tossed in a name that only the oldies in the audience could recall — Burt Shotton, who labored long and fruitlessly in the vineyards of the old Philadelphia Phillies of Baker Bowl vintage.

"Shotton never won a pennant but in my book he was the finest major league manager I ever saw," said Borgmann, equally emphatic as he was about Mantle.

Some of the young men in the audience — and there were a few — must have asked each other, who's he?

"All managers are good managers," continued the old scout, a politically sound stance since he lists among his personal friends such managerial giants as Joe McCarthy, Leo Durocher, Walt Alston and many others.

What Borgmann was saying without seeming to be facetious was that given a set of circumstances, the vast majority of managers would come up with just about the same results.

Many in the audience found Borgmann's evaluation of managers a bit confusing and inconclusive — but one thing came across loud and clear — Benny Borgmann is a true friend of all big league pilots and somebody should tell them.

A couple of times Borgmann went to the brink with that charismatic marvel of double talk, high finance, buffoonery and unquestioned success on the diamond — Casey Stengel, the financial leader of Burbank, California. But each time, Borgmann stopped, determined to say nothing that might reflect against his No. 1 all-time choice — Burt Shotton.

ON THE SUBJECT of scouting — his long time forte — Borgmann said the day of bird dogs looking just for the arm, leg and bat are over. The technique of scouting has been drastically changed by the draft situation, improved communications and other factors.

"You can't hide a good prospect anymore," he said. "Every scout in the country knows about him. You just don't hound a fellow, take his family out to dinner and push a contract on him. It doesn't happen that way anymore."

The good scout looks beyond the bat, glove and legs — he looks for instincts, coordination and attiudes. Proud of his own record as a scout, Borgmann admits complicity in one of the great scouting goofs in modern times — Curt Blefary of the Baltimore Orioles.

"Curt Blefary fooled me like he fooled a lot of other baseball people," Borgmann admitted. "He was a neighbor of mine as a high school kid and I never gave him a second thought. He just didn't seem to have it."

History of course chastised Borgmann and many others, who says it can happen once in a while — but not too often.

The beautiful tribute to Mickey Mantle by Borgmann haunted me as we sat there. The night before I had watched on TV as Joe Coleman of the Senators had literally challenged Mantle on high fast balls and got away with it — pitches Mickey would have knocked into the next county a few years ago.

It's a tragedy that Mickey Mantle didn't retire two years ago. Benny Borgmann didn't say it. Many in the room said it for him.

Ellies Win on Unearned Tally

Ellenville's baseball team came up with an unearned run in the bottom of the seventh yesterday to hand visiting Fallsburgh a 7-6 DUSO Village loss, leaving the Comets in sole possession of last place.

The Ellies, now 3-4 in the loop, compared to Fallsburgh's 2-5 mark, also moved up a notch on the co-leaders, Monticello and Liberty, who were rained out yesterday.

Ellenville led, 6-3, going into the seventh when Fallsburgh tied it with a three-run rally. But the Ellies were not to be denied in the bottom half as Ron Koss led off with a single, went to third on Steve Hayden's safety and Koss scored when Fallsburgh hurler, Ellie Patton, uncorked a wild pitch.

In DUSO League action, Kingston and Newburgh were washed out also, but Port and Middletown played with Port winning, 3-2, despite getting just one hit.

Steve Hayden carried the big bat for the Ellies, stroking a pair of triples, a run-scoring shot in the third, and a run-producing (scored himself) blow in the fifth. It was the Elites fourth win in 13 outings.

HR's Click For Tribe

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—The Cleveland Indians got four homers—by Max Alvis, Jose Vidal, Tommy Harper and Jose Cardenal—in an 18-hit attack that resulted in a 9-2 victory over the California Angels Thursday night.

Sonny Siebert, who singled in the first two Cleveland runs in the second inning, went the distance and registered his sixth victory against two defeats. He allowed the Angels seven hits, walked four and struck out six.

Alvis' homer in the third inning provided the Indians with what proved to be the winning run. It was his fourth of the year, and Cardenal who had doubled scored ahead of him.

DUSO Swim Champions Are Honored by Kiwanis

A swimming team limited to four hours practice per week, without a pool of its own, and forces to compete in "road games only"—this is the story of the Kingston High School swimming team which won the DUSO League championship of 1968.

The 22 members of the team were honored at the luncheon of the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday in a program arranged by Jack St. John and Jim Thompson.

Athletic Director Willard A. Burke paid tribute to the swimming team which emerged as league champion after only four years of existence. And has been forced to conduct practice in a 19-yard pool.

The team's coach, Ron Gabriele, was unable to attend because of a death in the family. Seventeen members of the team were present.

Members of the DUSO champs include, besides Coach Gabriele and Manager Sanford Whitman, Robert Wells, Terry Wilson, David Brinnier, Raymond Davis, Glenn Maisch, Michale O'Hara, Lawrence Pizik, Neil Rausch, George Schonger, John Brinnier, Kevin Churchill, Alan DeForest, Scott Findholt, Eugene Gruner, Howard Halpern, Peter Helmich, Andrew Jones, Craig Murray, Garry Schantz, Brian Williams and co-captains Charles Plunket and David Roberts.

New Moves Planned

NFL Balks Players

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Football League Players Association, unable to get the ball moving in their struggle with the league owners, Thursday said their attempt to negotiate with the owners on economic issues has failed again and indicated that drastic steps may be forthcoming.

John Gordy of the Detroit Lions, president of the Players Association, said at a news conference that the players would stand firm on their demands and that unless the owners agreed to sit down and bargain collectively, the NFL Players Association would have to "try its own case."

While Gordy did not say the players would vote to strike against the owners, he did not rule out the possibility of a strike.

"We are not pre-organized with a strike," said Dan Shulman, attorney for the Players Association. "All we want is for the owners to sit down and bargain collectively with us on the basic economic issues."

The players are seeking three things from an economic standpoint. They want a minimum yearly salary of $15,000, a $5,000,000 benefit-pension plan and $500 per man for playing exhibition games.

So far, the owners have said no to all three demands but according to the players, they have not even been willing to sit down and talk about it.

The players claim the owners have refused to give in to any proposal which will cost them money. The owners contend that the average net profit of the teams in the NFL is only $600,000 before taxes.

There is much doubt on behalf of the Players Association that this figure is correct, and although they have been shown an unaudited report, they plan to conduct their own certified audit as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, the owners have organized a lockout against the Players Association while their meetings are going on by refusing to sign veterans to contracts. The owners are hoping that some of the players will have second thoughts and reduce their demands.

Rookies Lead Golf

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Newcomers B. R. (Mac) McClendon and Bob Lunn, quietly playing in the wide open while the galleries followed golf's "big three," each fired five-under par 65's Thursday to take a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $100,000 Memphis Open.

The 22-year-old McClendon, on the tour only three weeks, calmly stroked in a 20-foot eagle putt on the 18th green to catch Californian Lunn of Sacramento, in the opening round.

Lunn, who joined the tour in January of 1967, had been in the clubhouse for about three hours with what appeared to be a safe lead when McClendon finished near dusk.

Tied for second at 66 were R. H. Sikes, Dick Mayer, Jack McGowan, and Larry Mowry.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, who collectively have won more than $2 million in the past 14 years, drew the lion's share of the record opening day gallery of 15,500, but the crowd had little to cheer.

Palmer, troubled by a calcium deposit in his left hip, was four strokes off the pace. Nicklaus, whose last tour victory was the Sahara Invitational a year ago, was one-over at 71, as was Player, pre-tournament favorite after shooting a 67 in Wednesday's pro-am.

Bunched in third place at 67 were Jim Wiechers, Richard Martinez, Bert Yancey, Gay Brewer, Larry Hinson, Lou Graham and Dick Lotz.

The field is to be cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds. More than one-third of the 150-man field shot par or better Thursday over the short Colonial Country Club course.

SF Leads By Game

ATLANTA (UPI)—Ron Hunt raced home from third base on a passed ball by Marty Martinez in the ninth inning to give San Francisco a 5-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves Thursday night, enabling the Giants to take a one-game lead in the National League race over the slumping St. Louis Cardinals.

Hunt led off the ninth with his third single of the game, was sacrificed to second by Jim Davenport and moved to third on an infield out by Ty Cline.

That brought up Willie Mays and while Cecil Upshaw was working carefully on Mays, Martinez let a wide pitch go by and permitted Hunt to score.

The victory moved the Giants a full game ahead of the Cardinals, who lost 3-2 to Los Angeles.

Bailey HR Rips Cards

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Bob Bailey singled home Willie Davis in the 11th inning Thursday to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, who dropped into second place behind the San Francisco Giants in the National League.

Davis opened the inning with a double and went to third on a sacrifice by Len Gabrielson. After Cardinal reliever Dick Hughes intentionally walked Ron Fairly and retired Tom Haller on a pop foul, Bailey singled home the winning run.

The Cardinals dropped out of first place for the first time since April 20.

Mantle Is Greatest

Working Press

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

They asked Benny Borgmann the inevitable question at the Old Timers Hall of Fame dinner and his response titillated some and must have surprised others in the elite baseball audience.

Mickey Mantle is (was) the greatest of the modern major league super stars, said Borgmann, a basketball immortal who has spent 36 years in minor league basball.

Significantly, 32 of those 36 years were spent as manager, coach and player in the St. Louis Cardinal farm system, covering the full span of Stan Musial's glory years.

Greater than Musial, Ted Williams or Willie Mays?

"He was just perfect," said the now Minnesota Twin chief of scouts, in a strong, declarative statement that brooked no rebuttal.

Borgmann, understandably, declined to compare Mantle and Musial or the others. He praised Musial as one of the greatest hitters in baseball history.

But, said the former Kingston basketball star of four decades ago, Mickey Mantle is the greatest athlete "I ever saw."

"Mantle could do everything," Borgmann went on. He could run, he could fly. He had the arm and the legs and was a great batter, the best switch hitter in the history of baseball.

"There have been many stars who excelled in one department or another — hitting, running, fielding, but Mickey Mantle did them all better than any player I ever saw," said Benny. "And he had a good head — seldom made a tactical mistake, a fine attitude and motivation. I'd have to say again he was just perfect."

BORGMANN TOSSED in another surprise on the subject of the greatest major league mangers of his time. He deftly skirted a clinical analysis of Casey Stengel's talents as a field pilot and tossed in a name that only the oldies in the audience could recall — Burt Shotton, who labored long and fruitlessly in the vineyards of the old Philadelphia Phillies of Baker Bowl vintage.

"Shotton never won a pennant but in my book he was the finest major league manager I ever saw," said Borgmann, equally emphatic as he was about Mantle.

Some of the young men in the audience — and there were a few — must have asked each other, who's he?

"All managers are good managers," continued the old scout, a politically sound stance since he lists among his personal friends such managerial giants as Joe McCarthy, Leo Durocher, Walt Alston and many others.

What Borgmann was saying without seeming to be facetious was that given a set of circumstances, the vast majority of managers would come up with just about the same results.

Many in the audience found Borgmann's evaluation of managers a bit confusing and inconclusive — but one thing came across loud and clear — Benny Borgmann is a true friend of all big league pilots and somebody should tell them.

A couple of times Borgmann went to the brink with that charismatic marvel of double talk, high finance, buffoonery and unquestioned success on the diamond — Casey Stengel, the financial leader of Burbank, California. But each time, Borgmann stopped, determined to say nothing that might reflect against his No. 1 all-time choice — Burt Shotton.

ON THE SUBJECT of scouting — his long time forte — Borgmann said the day of bird dogs looking just for the arm, leg and bat are over. The technique of scouting has been drastically changed by the draft situation, improved communications and other factors.

"You can't hide a good prospect anymore," he said. "Every scout in the country knows about him. You just don't hound a fellow, take his family out to dinner and push a contract on him. It doesn't happen that way anymore."

The good scout looks beyond the bat, glove and legs — he looks for instincts, coordination and attiudes. Proud of his own record as a scout, Borgmann admits complicity in one of the great scouting goofs in modern times — Curt Blefary of the Baltimore Orioles.

"Curt Blefary fooled me like he fooled a lot of other baseball people," Borgmann admitted. "He was a neighbor of mine as a high school kid and I never gave him a second thought. He just didn't seem to have it."

History of course chastised Borgmann and many others, who says it can happen once in a while — but not too often.

The beautiful tribute to Mickey Mantle by Borgmann haunted me as we sat there. The night before I had watched on TV as Joe Coleman of the Senators had literally challenged Mantle on high fast balls and got away with it — pitches Mickey would have knocked into the next county a few years ago.

It's a tragedy that Mickey Mantle didn't retire two years ago. Benny Borgmann didn't say it. Many in the room said it for him.

Ellies Win on Unearned Tally

Ellenville's baseball team came up with an unearned run in the bottom of the seventh yesterday to hand visiting Fallsburgh a 7-6 DUSO Village loss, leaving the Comets in sole possession of last place.

The Ellies, now 3-4 in the loop, compared to Fallsburgh's 2-5 mark, also moved up a notch on the co-leaders, Monticello and Liberty, who were rained out yesterday.

Ellenville led, 6-3, going into the seventh when Fallsburgh tied it with a three-run rally. But the Ellies were not to be denied in the bottom half as Ron Koss led off with a single, went to third on Steve Hayden's safety and Koss scored when Fallsburgh hurler, Ellie Patton, uncorked a wild pitch.

In DUSO League action, Kingston and Newburgh were washed out also, but Port and Middletown played with Port winning, 3-2, despite getting just one hit.

Steve Hayden carried the big bat for the Ellies, stroking a pair of triples, a run-scoring shot in the third, and a run-producing (scored himself) blow in the fifth. It was the Ellies fourth win in 13 outings.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—The Cleveland Indians got four homers—by Max Alvis, Jose Vidal, Tommy Harper and Jose Cardenal—in an 18-hit attack that resulted in a 9-2 victory over the California Angels Thursday night.

Sonny Siebert, who singled in the first two Cleveland runs in the second inning, went the distance and registered his sixth victory against two defeats. He allowed the Angels seven hits, walked four and struck out six.

Alvis' homer in the third inning provided the Indians with what proved to be the winning run. It was his fourth of the year, and Cardenal who had doubled scored ahead of him.

John Gordy of the Detroit Lions, president of the Players Association, said at a news conference that the players would stand firm on their demands and that unless the owners agreed to sit down and bargain collectively, the NFL Players Association would have to "try its own case."

While Gordy did not say the players would vote to strike against the owners, he did not rule out the possibility of a strike.

"We are not pre-organized with a strike," said Dan Shulman, attorney for the Players Association. "All we want is for the owners to sit down and bargain collectively with us on the basic economic issues."

The players are seeking three things from an economic standpoint. They want a minimum yearly salary of $15,000, a $5,000,000 benefit-pension plan and $500 per man for playing exhibition games.

So far, the owners have said no to all three demands but according to the players, they have not even been willing to sit down and talk about it.

The players claim the owners have refused to give in to any proposal which will cost them money. The owners contend that the average net profit of the teams in the NFL is only $606,000 before taxes.

There is much doubt on behalf of the Players Association that this figure is correct, and although they have been shown an unaudited report, they plan to conduct their own certified audit as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, the owners have organized a lockout against the Players Association while their meetings are going on by refusing to sign veterans to contracts. The owners are hoping that some of the players will have second thoughts and reduce their demands.

Rookies Lead Golf

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Newcomers B. R. (Mac) McClendon and Bob Lunn, quietly playing in the wide open while the galleries followed golf's "big three," each fired five-under par 65's Thursday to take a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $100,000 Memphis Open.

The 22-year-old McClendon, on the tour only three weeks, calmly stroked in a 20-foot eagle putt on the 18th green to catch Californian Lunn of Sacramento, in the opening round.

Lunn, who joined the tour in January of 1967, had been in the clubhouse for about three hours with what appeared to be a safe lead when McClendon finished near dusk.

Tied for second at 66 were R. H. Sikes, Dick Mayer, Jack McGowan, and Larry Mowry.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, who collectively have won more than $2 million in the past 14 years, drew the lion's share of the record opening day gallery of 15,500, but the crowd had little to cheer.

Palmer, troubled by a calcium deposit in his left hip, was four strokes off the pace, Nicklaus, whose last tour victory was the Sahara Invitational a year ago, was one-over at 71, as was Player, pre-tournament favorite after shooting a 67 in Wednesday's pro-am.

Bunched in third place at 67 were Jim Wiechers, Richard Martinez, Bert Yancey, Gay Brewer, Larry Hinson, Lou Graham and Dick Lotz.

The field is to be cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds. More than one-third of the 150-man field shot par or better Thursday over the short Colonial Country Club course.

SF Leads By Game

ATLANTA (UPI)—Ron Hunt raced home from third base on a passed ball by Marty Martinez in the ninth inning to give San Francisco a 5-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves Thursday night, enabling the Giants to take a one-game lead in the National League race over the slumping St. Louis Cardinals.

Hunt led off the ninth with his third single of the game, was sacrificed to second by Jim Davenport and moved to third on an infield out by Ty Cline.

That brought up Willie Mays and while Cecil Upshaw was working carefully on Mays, Martinez let a wide pitch go by and permitted Hunt to score.

The victory moved the Giants a full game ahead of the Cardinals, who lost 3-2 to Los Angeles.

Bailey HR Rips Cards

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Bob Bailey singled home Willie Davis in the 11th inning Thursday to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, who dropped into second place behind the San Francisco Giants in the National League.

Davis opened the inning with a double and went to third on a sacrifice by Len Gabrielson. After Cardinal reliever Dick Hughes intentionally walked Ron Fairly and retired Tom Haller on a pop foul, Bailey singled home the winning run.

John Purdin, who allowed just one single in two innings of relief, received credit for the triumph, making his record, 1-1. Hughes is now 0-2.

The Cardinals dropped out of first place for the first time since April 20.

Wallkill Edges New Paltz, 7 to 6

New Paltz High's baseball team had a chance to gain a tie for the UCAL lead with front-running and idle Marlboro yesterday, but instead fell victim to a last-inning three-run rally by last place Wallkill that gave the host Blue Devils a 7-6 upset victory.

New Paltz, tied for second before the game with Onteora at 6-3, drops to third with Marlboro, 7-3, enjoying the top spot. OCS plays today as does the rest of the loop, including Highland, who can move into a tie with NP by winning at Pine Bush. The Bushmen sit fifth at 4-6. Rondout follows at 3-6 and Wallkill, 3-8, is still in the basement.

Wallkill used Ish Martinez's two-run double to take a 7-3 lead going into the final frame. The Blue Devils hurler, Tony Yurchuk staved off a seventh-stanza Huguenot rally that netted NP a trio of runs—one short—as he got the last batter, Bill Schiller, to fly to right to end the contest.

The score.

2-1 Favorite Winner At Monticello Track

MONTICELLO — Overhauling the leader in the stretch seems to be the vogue in the feature races at Monticello Raceway. Last night was no exception as 2-1 favorite Tag Ko Si. did the trick on Nevele Song to capture the $1,100 feature trot in 2:08.1.

The companion feature, the sixth race $1,1000 trot, named in honor of Sportsmen's Park restaurant of Rosendale, went to Pinehaven Doll, the No. 4 horse.

Tag Ko Si, a six-year-old gelding, owned by the Susan Bea Stable of New Hyde Park, and reined by George Gilmour, went outside at the half mile mark and stayed second on the outside until the stretch when he passed the leader to that point, Nevele Song, with a strong burst of speed.

Gilmour, 23, sat third with the son of Tag Me, Betty Ko Si, out of Voloson. He trailed the Mike Vicidomini handled Nevele Song and Earle Smith's Ozark Hanover going to the first quarter. The leader hit the pole in 31.4 over the track classified only as "good" because of the driving rain.

Tag Ko Si passed Ozark Hanover coming down the stretch the first time around to gain second. They reached the half-mile in 1.04.4, with Nevele Song on top and the eventual winner outside.

Gilmour stayed outside with the gelding, pushing the leader. He closed the gap down from a full length to just a half-length at the three quarter mark, which they hit in 1.36.3.

On the turn, Gilmour edged Tag Ko Si up closer, cutting the margin down to just a neck, and as they came out of the turn, Gilmour let his charge loose and the gelding zoomed past Nevele Song.

Tag Ko Si (2) returned $6.60, $4.00 and $3.00. Betetor's choice, (5) passed Nevele Song for place and paid $5.80 and $3.40 while Nevele Song (7) paid $3.00.

The daily double combination of Saxaphone in the first and Ted Wooleen in the second (2-1) was worth $25.20.

Prof. Jay Bloom, Councilor of the Hillel Chapter at New Paltz College, will be the sepaker at the Kingston B'nai B'rith Lodge meeting to be held Monday, 8 p.m., at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue.

Prof. Bloom's subject will be Problems on the Campus Which Serve as a Challenge to the Students. Following his talk, a group of college students will participate in a panel discussion. Arrangements for the meeting have been made by Dr. Bernard Cohen, chairman of the Lodge Hillel committee and Stanley Rosenbaum, program chairman. Inquiry for Arnheiter Urged by Retired Admiral WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired rear admiral urges the Navy to hold the court of inquiry requested by Lt. Cmdr. Marcus A. Arnheiter, who claims he was relieved of his command because of a conspiracy by dissident junior officers.

Rear Adm. D. V. Gallery of Oakton, Va., told a news conference Thursday he hoped "enough of a stink is raised so they — the Navy — will watch what they are doing in the future."

Arnheiter was removed from his command of the destroyer escort Vance in 1966 and reassigned to shore duty. A Navy report said Arnheiter lacked reliability and predictability in command and showed faulty judgment.

Six congressmen, including Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N. Y., also have backed Arnheiter's request for a court of inquiry.

Gallery said he had told Navy Secretary Paul Ignatius in a letter that the handling of the case "is becoming a national scandal."

Resnick Scores Proposed Closing Of a Hospital

By United Press International

Paul O'Dwyer, running for the nomination to the U.S. Senate, says he could get along well with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy at the head of the Democratic November ballot.

On a western New York campaign tour for the June 18 Democratic primary, O'Dwyer said he would have "no hesitancy" in supporting New York's junior senator in the event Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy failed to get the nod at the national convention in Chicago.

O'Dwyer, a former New York city councilman and the Senate hopeful of the McCarthy wing of the state party, is opposed by Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick of Ellenville and Eugene Nickerson, executive of Nassau County.

The brother of former Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York said President Johnson was forced into the Paris peace talks because of the McCarthy presidential candidacy.

In New York, Resnick asked Mayor John V. Lindsay to keep Harlem's Sydenham Hospital open. Calling the proposed closing "monstrous," the mid-Hudson valley congressman said there would be no place for the hospital's 5,200 annual patients and 492 employes to go.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who has delegates supporting him running in most of the state's congressional districts against Kennedy and McCarthy backers in the June primary, campaigned in New York.

Officials had no comment on the report former Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York was ready for appointment as ambassador to Spain, but Humphrey said he was "delighted to see my old friend Bob Wagner in the service of his country again."

Flooding Over Wide Regions

By United Press International

Flooding caused by heavy rains along a rain belt stretching from the Pacific Northwest through Arkansas to Massachusetts today chased dozens of families from their homes.

High water resulting from a week of heavy rains forced 65 families to evacuate their homes at Circleville, Ohio. Most of southern Ohio's roads were closed by high water and landslides, but no injuries were reported.

Ohio state police reported the community of South Lebanon, population 3,000, was evacuated. The village of Morrow, also 3,000 population, was isolated by high water which covered U.S. 22, police said.

During a three-hour period today about two inches of rain fell on Oklahoma City, Okla. Hail the size of golf balls was blown by strong winds across the city. Flash flooding routed several families from their home in the city.

Lightning was believed the cause of a house fire that killed two persons in Oklahoma City today. South of the city, at Wynnewood, a tornado touched ground, but no damage was reported.

In the Northwest the rain was light and showers and thundershowers were reported along a frontal system stretching from Maryland to the Texas panhandle.

Fines Total $140

Fines aggregating $140 were imposed today by City Judge Hubert A. Richter after motorists charged with Vehicle and Traffic violations appeared and entered pleas of guilty. Kingston Police on Thursday booked 32 motorists for violations which included 10 for passing red flashing lights, and 8 each for passing stop signs and speeding on city streets.

Killed by Truck

MCKENNY, Va. (AP) — George H. Manheim, 43, of the Central New York village of Oxford, was killed Thursday when struck by a truck while walking along U.S. Route 1 near this community in the southern part of the state.

Ohio state police reported the community of South Lebanon, population 3,000, was evacuated. The village of Morrow, also 3,000 population, was isolated by high water which covered U.S. 22, police said.

During a three-hour period today about two inches of rain fell on Oklahoma City, Okla. Hail the size of golf ball, was blown by strong winds across the city. Flash flooding routed several families from their home in the city.

Lightning was believed the cause of a house fire that killed two persons in Oklahoma City today. South of the city, at Wynnewood, a tornado touched ground, but no damage was reported.

In the Northwest the rain was light and showers and thundershowers were reported along a frontal system stretching from Maryland to the Texas panhandle.

Fines Total $140

Fines aggregating $140 were imposed today by City Judge Hubert A. Richter after motorists charged with Vehicle and Traffic violations appeared and entered pleas of guilty. Kingston Police on Thursday booked 32 motorists for violations which included 10 for passing red flashing lights, and 8 each for passing stop signs and speeding on city streets.

Killed by Truck

MCKENNY, Va. (AP) — George H. Manheim, 43, of the Central New York village of Oxford, was killed Thursday when struck by a truck while walking along U.S. Route 1 near this community in the southern part of the state.

GROUND FLOOR OPPORTUNITY

Ulster Co. Community College Campus does not include a dormatory — hundreds of students are looking for accommodations. Marbletown zoning rigidly restricts all commercial building or change of useage on all present buildings.

This property will accommodate 60 or more students with a free apartment for couple as housemother and caretaker with room for expansion. Now zoned as commercial with hotel background. Act now.

Is Today's House A Bargain?

Today's house is the best buy in history. Research by the National Association of Home Builders helped develop new methods and materials enabling builders to construct a better designed, more durable and more comfortable home.

Items considered luxuries a short time ago are commonplace. Air-conditioning, multiple bathrooms, 2-car garages, family rooms, major appliances, patios, wall-to-wall carpeting are examples.

Interest rates on house mortgages have increased. Still, home loans are the cheapest money you can buy. On a house—6½% (a typical figure) is the true interest and the rate you pay for the life of the loan. Home interest rates are much lower than on anything else you buy.

The best time to buy a home is as soon as you can afford it. Real estate is a family's best protection. Money you pay for shelter is fixed and the value grows. It has been true in the past, is true now and will be in the future. The time to buy a home is now.

YOU MAY PAY 20% MORE BY 1971

Increased material and labor costs raises a $20,000 house to $21,000 in a year—to $24,000 by 1971. Buy now—the increased value will be your gain—not loss. Selection is greater now in the Ulster County area. Realtors list them in The Kingston Daily Freeman classified section. Many can be bought with low down payment and long term loan. Check them out — let an expert help you on financing, values, taxes, schools, etc. Now is the time to buy a home.

Is Today's House A Bargain?

Today's house is the best buy in history. Research by the National Association of Home Builders helped develop new methods and materials enabling builders to construct a better designed, more durable and more comfortable home.

Items considered luxuries a short time ago are commonplace. Air-conditioning, multiple bathrooms, 2-car garages, family rooms, major appliances, patios, wall-to-wall carpeting are examples.

Interest rates on house mortgages have increased. Still, home loans are the cheapest money you can buy. On a house—6½% (a typical figure) is the true interest and the rate you pay for the life of the loan. Home interest rates are much lower than on anything else you buy.

The best time to buy a home is as soon as you can afford it. Real estate is a family's best protection. Money you pay for shelter is fixed and the value grows. It has been true in the past, is true now and will be in the future. The time to buy a home is now.

YOU MAY PAY 20% MORE BY 1971

Increased material and labor costs raises a $20,000 house to $21,000 in a year—to $24,000 by 1971. Buy now—the increased value will be your gain—not loss. Selection is greater now in the Ulster County area. Realtors list them in The Kingston Daily Freeman classified section. Many can be bought with low down payment and long term loan. Check them out — let an expert help you on financing, values, taxes, schools, etc. Now is the time to buy a home.

Dear Abby

Get Lowdown on High Jinks

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday night my husband and I went to the movies. Upon arriving home earlier than expected, we found our 15-year-old daughter on the couch with her boyfriend. They were all wrapped up in each other in a most disgusting position.

We ordered the boy out of the house and forbade our daughter never to see him again. She flew into an angry rage and screamed that when two people are "in love" anything they did was "beautiful." She threatened to leave home if we don't let her see her boyfriend again.

What's a mother to do?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Try to be more understanding. Your daughter obviously doesn't know the difference between "love" and a healthy, normal, adolescent physical attraction. I you do, try to explain it to her. (If you don't, ask her to write to me and I'll try.)

I think you made a big mistake in ordering her boyfriend out of the house and forbidding your daughter ever to see him again. You should have had a frank talk with both of them about the dangers of playing with fire. The boy should have been made to feel welcome in your home, but only on your terms. (You make the "rules" as to how often he may come, how late he may stay, etc.) If you drive them to meeting on the sneak elsewhere you will create worse problems.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I was born and raised right here in this small town, so I know nearly everyone and they know me. My problem: I get an invitation to every graduation, wedding, baby shower, tea, and luncheon in town. Just name the occasion that calls for a gift, and I get notice.

Abby, I am not cheap, and I don't mind sending gifts to my friends. But how about all these acquaintances?

Right now I am swamped with "invitations." I have a good name in town and don't want to ruin it. But I refuse to be a sucker to people I hardly know. What is your advice?

SWAMPED

DEAR SWAMPED: Every announcement and invitation is not necessarily a big broad hint for a gift. The best rule to follow is: If you would derive real pleasure out of sending a gift, send one. If you don't feel "close" enough to send a gift, send a card. If you feel like a "sucker," forget it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a bone to pick with you. Someone wrote and asked you if it was considered "proper" to use a toothpick in public and you said absolutely not.

Well, how come they sell fancy gold toothpicks in the finest stores?

SEEN THEM

DEAR SEEN: You will find toe-nail clippers and back-scratchers in some of the "finest" stores, too, but that doesn't mean it's "proper" to use them in public.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: How well I understand that poor newlywed girl who wants some freedom and time to adjust before being "rushed" into pregnancy.

She is absolutely right. We waited 7 years before having a baby. We traveled, got solvent, entertained, and got to know and understand each other. Then we were relaxed and ready to care for a child.

Furthermore, we waited until our first child was 5 years old before we had another baby. They are 4 and 9 now, and they really "like" each other. They do many things together, but she has her friends and he has his. They do not compete as brothers and sisters who are "nearly the same age" do. Pushing one child aside for another is unfair. I cannot say enough for planned parenthood.

In yesterday's column we discussed the two spade response to one no-trump which shows both minor suits and any strength hand. Yesterday responder held one point. Today he holds eight high card points. Ordinarily he would simply bid three no-trump.

West would make his normal spade lead and the defense would collect five tricks before South could get around to cashing any clubs.

The artificial Jacoby two spade response asks South to rebid two no-trump with at least one and a half stoppers in each major. King-jack-small is the least holding that qualifies here. Otherwise, South rebids to three of his better minor.

The three club bid warns North away from three no-trump but he wants to make a further try for game and does so by bidding four clubs.

South could pass at this point but he has the right hand for going on. Since North has shown at least 10 minor suit cards South can count a maximum of one loser in the major suits and his good minor suit cards indicate that there won't be more than one loser there. In fact, South is ambitious enough to make a mild slam try. He does this by bidding four hearts. This can't be an attempt to get to a heart contract and must be read as a club slam try.

North looks at his eight points, refuses the invitation and closes the bidding at five clubs.

Strangely enough the spade lead allows South to make 12 tricks. He takes his ace of spades and knocks out the ace of clubs. It doesn't matter what West does at this stage. South will draw the rest of the trumps and discard his 10 and eight of hearts on dummy's long diamonds.

The slam will have been missed but North and South will have avoided getting set at three no-trump.

Dear Abby

Get Lowdown on High Jinks

(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday night my husband and I went to the movies. Upon arriving home earlier than expected, we found our 15-year-old daughter on the couch with her boyfriend. They were all wrapped up in each other in a most disgusting position.

We ordered the boy out of the house and forbade our daughter never to see him again. She flew into an angry rage and screamed that when two people are "in love" anything they did was "beautiful." She threatened to leave home if we don't let her see her boyfriend again.

What's a mother to do?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Try to be more understanding. Your daughter obviously doesn't know the difference between "love" and a healthy, normal, adolescent physical attraction. I you do, try to explain it to her. (If you don't, ask her to write to me and I'll try.)

I think you made a big mistake in ordering her boyfriend out of the house and forbidding your daughter ever to see him again. You should have had a frank talk with both of them about the dangers of playing with fire. The boy should have been made to feel welcome in your home, but only on your terms. (You make the "rules" as to how often he may come, how late he may stay, etc.) If you drive them to meeting on the sneak elsewhere you will create worse problems.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I was born and raised right here in this small town, so I know nearly everyone and they know me. My problem: I get an invitation to every graduation, wedding, baby shower, tea, and luncheon in town. Just name the occasion that calls for a gift, and I get notice.

Abby, I am not cheap, and I don't mind sending gifts to my friends. But how about all these acquaintances?

Right now I am swamped with "invitations." I have a good name in town and don't want to ruin it. But I refuse to be a sucker to people I hardly know. What is your advice?

SWAMPED

DEAR SWAMPED: Every announcement and invitation is not necessarily a big broad hint for a gift. The best rule to follow is: If you would derive real pleasure out of sending a gift, send one. If you don't feel "close" enough to send a gift, send a card. If you feel like a "sucker," forget it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a bone to pick with you. Someone wrote and asked you if it was considered "proper" to use a toothpick in public and you said absolutely not.

Well, how come they sell fancy gold toothpicks in the finest stores?

SEEN THEM

DEAR SEEN: You will find toe-nail clippers and back-scratchers in some of the "finest" stores, too, but that doesn't mean it's "proper" to use them in public.

Undecided Vote, Hostile Labor Give RFK Backers Oregon Jitters

By RAYMOND LAHR

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's campaign team suffered an attack of nerves today because of reports that many Oregon Democrats are still in the "undecided" class and that hostile labor movement activity may damage their candidate.

With the Oregon presidential primary just four days away, Kennedy workers were reported finding about 30 per cent of the state's Democrats in an uncommitted status.

Kennedy, who has defeated Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in two recent primaries, faces the Minnesotan a third time in Oregon Tuesday. President Johnson's name also is on the Democratic ballot because he announced he would not seek reelection too late for it to be removed.

Urge Peace Support

The labor pitch against Kennedy has an unusual slant. George Brown, AFL-CIO state political director, said it was aimed at pulling a pro-Johnson vote to show support for the President in Vietnam peace negotiations.

A full-page advertisement in the Oregon Journal in Portland Thursday and the Oregonian today carried this message:

"We feel the Oregon voter is sophisticated enough to register his vote on today's issues rather than today's candidates. The key issue is a negotiated settlement of the war in Vietnam and a vote for our President is the most effective way to demonstrate our support of his efforts to resolve this issue."

The advertisement said the space was bought by "Citizens for Peace, Ed Ranall, chairman." Randall is an official of the state AFL-CIO.

Pace Quickens

Although Kennedy was alone in Oregon Thursday, the campaign pace quickened today. McCarthy was returning from a two-day swing in California, where he and Kennedy compete in a more important primary contest June 4.

Kennedy's schedule took him down the coast of Oregon for three stops before flying to Los Angeles for a rally tonight. He will be back in Oregon Saturday.

Richard M. Nixon returns to Oregon late today for his final campaign swing. He is competing in the Republican primary Tuesday against Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who is not a declared candidate and has not campaigned in Oregon.

Lindsay Backs Rockefeller

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York was also due in Oregon today to campaign for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who announced his candidacy too late to enter primaries. A write-in movement has been launched for Rockefeller.

In the Democratic contest, Kennedy is generally regarded as the favorite if for no other reason than that his campaign organization is much superior to McCarthy's. His own campaigners are downgrading the importance of their organization, however, because they expect a heavy vote turnout anyway.

A heated Democratic senatorial primary as well as the presidential primary contest will pull out voters. Sen. Wayne L. Morse's renomination is being challenged by former Rep. Robert Duncan.

Nixon Camp: Little Concern

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, a proxy campaigning for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, moved into Oregon today, but the forces of Richard M. Nixon professed little concern.

Lindsay, who got financial assistance from Rockefeller in his campaign for mayor three years ago, has a day of appearances in Portland, Eugene and Corvallis to seek write-in votes for the absent governor in next Tuesday's GOP presidential primary.

But the battle was only of percentages, with promoters of Rockefeller and the organization of another absentee, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, acknowledging Nixon would win easily.

A Nixon lieutenant said the goal of the former vice president is to outpoll the combined total of Reagan and Rockefeller.

He said Nixon has been advised there is no doubt this majority can be attained. In past primaries, the Nixon showing has soared far above such announced goals, to 70 per cent in his last outing, the Nebraska primary.

Howell Appling Jr., chairman of the Oregon Nixon organization, said he does not think Rockefeller or Reagan will gain enough primary support to enhance his own presidential position.

Robert L. Ridgley, a lawyer and a leader of the Rockefeller effort, said that if the New York governor could capture 10 per cent of Tuesday's GOP vote, the showing would be a good one.

He got 5 per cent in Nebraska's presidential primary on May 14, while Reagan received 22 per cent.

Reagan is on the Oregon ballot, which lists all potential presidential contenders who do not disavow candidacy. The Californian left his name there on grounds that to remove it would be inconsistent with his position as a favorite-son candidate in his own state.

Reagan has not campaigned here but an Oregon campaign organization is working for his cause with a television barrage and with literature mailed to GOP voters.

Crime Bill Gets the OK In 72 to 4 Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a crime-control bill that would undo controversial Supreme Court rulings that guarantee criminal suspects greater rights. The measure also would grant police new wiretapping and electronic "bugging" authority.

But while the Senate passed the bill Thursday night by a 72-4 vote, it was uncertain how much of it will become law.

It still faces House consideration, and contains provisions strongly opposed by President Johnson and Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the influential House Judiciary Committee. Already, there is speculation Johnson would veto such a measure.

The prime concern of Johnson, Celler and other opponents involves the proposed controls on the Supreme Court. And some opponents say constitutional questions are raised by sections authorizing police wiretapping and electronic surveillance or "bugging" of suspects.

As passed by the Senate, the bill's chief provisions would:

—Establish a two-year program of $400 million in federal grants to improve the training and equipment of state and local police and for research to develop new crime fighting techniques.

The grants could help finance the war on organized crime and control the prevention of riots.

—Undo Supreme Court decisions restricting the use of confessions and police lineup identification in federal crime trials. The sole test of the admissibility of a confession would be whether it was given voluntarily.

—Authorize wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping by law enforcement officers, acting under court orders, in the investigation of specified crimes. This would be permitted by state and local police, as well as federal officers, in states that pass implementing legislation.

Senate Rejects Dirksen On Subversive Board

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Despite heated desk-pounding by Sen. Everett Dirksen, the Senate has rejected his resolution to keep the Subversive Activities Control Board (SBAC) from going out of business by the end of the year.

The board, which is supposed to investigate Communist activities and determine whether groups should be listed as subversive, has not had any cases because of recent Supreme Court decision.

Unless it hears new cases by the end of the year, the board would officially be put out of business on Dec. 31.

Dirksen's resolution would have given state attorneys general power to bring cases before the board because of the Justice Department's failure to do so. The Illinois senator said Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark was "subverting and distorting desires of Congress" by not bringing a single case before the board.

His resolution was defeated Thursday by a 49 to 27 vote.

MARINE CITATION — During a ceremony at the White House Thursday at which he presented Presidential Unit Citation to the 26th Marine Regiment and its re-enforcing units for holding Khe Sanh early this year, President Johnson shook hands with Pfc Richard G. Undecided Vote, Hostile Labor Give RFK Backers Oregon Jitters

By RAYMOND LAHR

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's campaign team suffered an attack of nerves today because of reports that many Oregon Democrats are still in the "undecided" class and that hostile labor movement activity may damage their candidate.

With the Oregon presidential primary just four days away, Kennedy workers were reported finding about 30 per cent of the state's Democrats in an uncommitted status.

Kennedy, who has defeated Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in two recent primaries, faces the Minnesotan a third time in Oregon Tuesday. President Johnson's name also is on the Democratic ballot because he announced he would not seek reelection too late for it to be removed.

Urge Peace Support

The labor pitch against Kennedy has an unusual slant. George Brown, AFL-CIO state political director, said it was aimed at pulling a pro-Johnson vote to show support for the President in Vietnam peace negotiations.

A full-page advertisement in the Oregon Journal in Portland Thursday and the Oregonian today carried this message:

"We feel the Oregon voter is sophisticated enough to register his vote on today's issues rather than today's candidates. The key issue is a negotiated settlement of the war in Vietnam and a vote for our President is the most effective way to demonstrate our support of his efforts to resolve this issue."

The advertisement said the space was bought by "Citizens for Peace, Ed Ranall, chairman." Randall is an official of the state AFL-CIO.

Pace Quickens

Although Kennedy was alone in Oregon Thursday, the campaign pace quickened today. McCarthy was returning from a two-day swing in California, where he and Kennedy compete in a more important primary contest June 4.

Kennedy's schedule took him down the coast of Oregon for three stops before flying to Los Angeles for a rally tonight. He will be back in Oregon Saturday.

Richard M. Nixon returns to Oregon late today for his final campaign swing. He is competing in the Republican primary Tuesday against Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who is not a declared candidate and has not campaigned in Oregon.

Lindsay Backs Rockefeller

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York was also due in Oregon today to campaign for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who announced his candidacy too late to enter primaries. A write-in movement has been launched for Rockefeller.

In the Democratic contest, Kennedy is generally regarded as the favorite if for no other reason than that his campaign organization is much superior to McCarthy's. His own campaigners are downgrading the importance of their organization, however, because they expect a heavy vote turnout anyway.

A heated Democratic senatorial primary as well as the presidential primary contest will pull out voters. Sen. Wayne L. Morse's renomination is being challenged by former Rep. Robert Duncan.

Nixon Camp: Little Concern

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, a proxy campaigning for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, moved into Oregon today, but the forces of Richard M. Nixon professed little concern.

Lindsay, who got financial assistance from Rockefeller in his campaign for mayor three years ago, has a day of appearances in Portland, Eugene and Corvallis to seek write in votes for the absent governor in next Tuesday's GOP presidential primary.

But the battle was only of percentages, with promoters of Rockefeller and the organization of another absentee, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, acknowledging Nixon would win easily.

A Nixon lieutenant said the goal of the former vice president is to outpoll the combined total of Reagan and Rockefeller.

He said Nixon has been advised there is no doubt this majority can be attained. In past primaries, the Nixon showing has soared far above such announced goals, to 70 per cent in his last outing, the Nebraska primary.

Howell Appling Jr., chairman of the Oregon Nixon organization, said he does not think Rockefeller or Reagan will gain enough primary support to enhance his own presidential position.

Robert L. Ridgley, a lawyer and a leader of the Rockefeller effort, said that if the New York governor could capture 10 per cent of Tuesday's GOP vote, the showing would be a good one.

He got 5 per cent in Nebraska's presidential primary on May 14, while Reagan received 22 per cent.

Reagan is on the Oregon ballot, which lists all potential presidential contenders who do not disavow candidacy. The Californian left his name there on grounds that to remove it would be inconsistent with his position as a favorite-son candidate in his own state.

Reagan has not campaigned here but an Oregon campaign organization is working for his cause with a television barrage and with literature mailed to GOP voters.
